Egypt Walks Out Of Peace Talks; U.N. Intervenes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The senior U.N. commander in the Middle East conferred with Egypt's war minister today over the suspension of cease-fire talks, then flew to Jerusalem to meet with Israeli officials.

The flurry of activity by Lt. Gen. Enzio Silasvuo was meant to bring Israeli Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv and Egyptian Maj. Gen. Mohamed el-Gamasy back to their desert negotiating table after their talks broke off Thursday.

Israeli newspapers reported that Israeli and Egyptian forces on the Suez Canal front were on maximum alert. The paper Yediot Aharonot said Egypt had resupplied its forces with Soviet arms since the war "and they need nothing more than an order to renew the firing."

A U.N. spokesman said "some incidents" had been reported since the talks were broken off, but he repeated an earlier assertion that the "ceasefire is holding." No details of the incidents were available.

The spokesman said Silasvuo met with Egyptian War Minister Ahmed

Ismail in Cairo for nearly an hour at Silasvuo's request. He declined further comment, but other sources said the meeting was held apparently at the instruction of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

"I think we should not lose the momentum," Waldheim said in New York Thursday. "I think we should do all we can to maintain the momentum and get a settlement."

Yariv said he thought the talks would continue, but Premier Golda Meir declared she was by no means certain that the cease-fire would endure until full peace negotiations begin.

U.S. officials in Washington said they expect the Arab-Israeli peace conference to open in Geneva in mid-December even if the impasse is not resolved.

Israel's military command reported that another Israeli soldier had been killed and three wounded in sporadic cease-fire violations, occurring almost daily on the southern front. The Israeli killed Thursday was the fifth reported Israeli fatality since the Oct. 24 U.N. cease-fire.

Lt. Governor's Panel Advances Energy Proposals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lt. Gov. John Brown said Thursday his task force on energy considers its chief priority a proposal that would create a cabinet-level energy coordinator for the state.

Brown's 32-member panel has proposed that Gov. John J. Gilligan be given the legislative authority to set state speed limits during the fuel shortage.

Brown said many of the regulatory agencies for various fuel sources are in different departments. He denied a suggestion the new cabinet position would be for an "energy czar."

"No, I wouldn't call him a czar," he said. "I would call him a coordinator."

The speed limit proposal was one of seven proposals adopted by the task force appointed by the Republican lieutenant governor. Brown said they will be submitted to the Democratic governor and the leadership of both houses.

"There isn't anything partisan about what we're trying to do," Brown, an announced candidate for the U.S. Senate nomination said.

He said he didn't know the politics of any of the members of the task force, "only that they are experts in their field."

In proposing the governor be given the authority to set speed limits, the task force suggested it would enable him to adopt them to conform with federal rules and regulations.

President Nixon has suggested a 50 miles an hour speed limit for autos and 55 for trucks.

All of the proposals will be offered to the legislature in bill form after it reconvenes in January, Brown said.

The other proposals:

- Repeal the severance tax on coal, oil and gas.
- Give credit to industry as an incentive for converting from one type of fuel to another in order to conserve energy.
- Give school districts the authority to change their calendars consistent with state requirements to conserve fuel and energy.
- Allow school boards to regulate the driving of private vehicles by students to schools and permit school districts to contract out their school buses for public transportation when they are not in school use.
- Establish minimum standards at the state level to conserve fuels and energy in buildings.

Gas Decision Near?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon may be nearing a decision on whether to impose gasoline rationing, higher gasoline taxes or both.

He scheduled a meeting for today with his cabinet-level energy group. Such a move usually means that a decision is near.

Sources said the energy group is leaning heavily toward recommending rationing to Nixon. Senior administration officials have concluded that Congress would not approve a large increase in the federal tax on gasoline to discourage driving, the sources said.

However, Nixon is known to view rationing as a last resort. On Nov. 7 he said the American people would resent peacetime rationing "very, very much" and that he personally disliked it because of the power it gave to the officials who administer it.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said Thursday that no decision has been made either way.

Contingency plans are being drafted for rationing, the White House has confirmed.

Stein, reporting to newsmen on a high-level assessment of the fuel shortage's economic impact, predicted it will push the nation's economy down to near-recession levels next year.

Unemployment, now standing at 4.5 per cent, will rise to close to 6 per cent, he said. That would mean that more than a million workers would lose jobs.

Stein said Americans can expect sharply higher fuel prices. He said the government should maintain price controls on petroleum because oil companies would otherwise reap windfall profits.

He said the worst impact would come in the first six months of next year and said the output of the economy could decline from January through March.

In other developments:

—Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., criticized continuing U.S. oil shipments to South Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand during the domestic shortage. The Pentagon said the amounts of oil have been reduced but the policy of providing fuel to the three nations remains unchanged.

—The Arab oil-producing countries promised to relax the energy squeeze on Britain, France, Spain and those African nations that broke relations with Israel. The Arabs have cut off all oil for the United States.

—Chrysler Corp. said it will close January. Chrysler said the move was to change over to increased small-car production.

—Robert D. Timm, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, said the fuel shortage probably will result in some cities losing all scheduled air service.

—The House Public Works Committee approved a bill which would set a nationwide speed limit for all vehicles of 55 miles per hour.

Kissinger Under Fire In Britain

LONDON (AP) — Offended British officials are meeting Henry A. Kissinger's criticism of European behavior during the October Arab-Israeli war with biting attacks on his style of diplomacy.

Nothing is being said publicly beyond the laconic remark of a Foreign Office spokesman, "We prefer to look forward, not backward."

But in the privacy of their offices, government men are letting loose a cascade of complaints against the secretary of state almost unprecedented since World War II.

Kissinger infuriated the British when he said at a news conference on Nov. 22 that those European allies who had been consulted most about U. S. policy in the Middle East turned out to be the least cooperative. The British were not named, but they felt they were being attacked by implication.

They feel he needs reminding that the European allies are not yet a monolithic group with a single identity and a unified foreign policy. They consider his call for a "new Atlantic Charter" that would somehow embrace Japan and his talk of 1973 as the "Year of Europe" in American foreign policy ill conceived, gimmicky and premature.

After the October war started, Kissinger's failure to consult the European allies before certain major American moves led them to suspect that he was trying to exclude them from a region which they consider more important to them than to the Americans.

Britain, France and some other European states consider U.S. backing for Israel a mistaken policy. They feel it imperils Western Europe's oil supplies, lets Russia pose as the champion of the Arab cause and failed to persuade the Israelis to withdraw from the Arab lands they occupied in the 1967 war. This latter, in the British view, is the flashpoint that started the October war.

In listing their grievances, British officials take pains to stress that none are fundamental. All can be resolved with improved communications and better crisis management methods, they say. Kissinger's attendance at next month's meeting of the North Atlantic council of foreign ministers and his subsequent trip to London will be one occasion for discussing this.

Seek Haig Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — The special Watergate prosecutor's staff wants Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., President Nixon's top aide, to testify at a federal court hearing on the 18-minute gap in one of the subpoenaed presidential tapes.

White House lawyers indicated at the close of Thursday's session in court that there was no objection to Haig's appearance, that the only problem was arranging a time.

That was expected to be worked out at a conference in U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's chambers before the resumption of testimony today in open court.

Haig's name cropped up frequently this week during testimony by Rose Mary Woods, the President's personal secretary, and J. Fred Buzhardt, White House counsel assigned to the tapes case.

Disclosure that Haig would testify came during a rapid-fire series of Watergate developments at the courthouse and elsewhere that included:

—Indictment of Dwight L. Chapin, former presidential appointments secretary, on charges of lying to the original Watergate grand jury.

—A statement from presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler that the special prosecutor's staff has "a certain amount of ingrained suspicion and visceral dislike for this President and this administration."

—A suggestion from special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski that all White House tapes be turned over to the court for safekeeping. Ziegler termed that suggestion "just nonsense."

—Jaworski's request that Sirica have the Watergate tapes in his possession copied and have the four for which the White House made no claims of executive privilege turned over immediately to the grand jury investigating the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

—The Associated Press learned that the White House has told investigators into the activities of the plumbers unit that they could jeopardize the life of a foreign agent and a Central Intelligence Agency operation involving eavesdropping on Soviet leaders, including Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev.

The last witness at the tapes hearing Thursday was Alexander P. Butterfield, head of the Federal Aviation Administration, who had been the White House official responsible for installation of the tape system.

Butterfield said he had assumed the system installed by the technical services branch of the Secret Service was the best available to do the job.

4 Southern States Feel Tremors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brief earth tremors hit portions of four Southern states early today, frightening hundreds of persons. There were no reports of injuries or major damage.

The National Weather Service in Atlanta said tremors were reported in Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina and Georgia. Officials said they struck at 2:48 a.m. and lasted about 15 seconds.

Dishes rattled and sleeping residents were awakened by the tremors. Dozens of persons called sheriff's departments and state police to report the phenomenon.

In North Carolina, sheriff's departments reported the tremor was felt in Buncombe, Haywood and Henderson counties. In South Carolina, reports came from Spartanburg, Greenville and Pickens counties.

Federal Aviation Administration officials said they believed the tremor was centered halfway between Maryville and Johnson City in Tennessee.

Tennessee Highway Patrol trooper Dean Norman said the highway patrol's Knoxville office had been swamped with calls about the tremor. He said people had called from practically every county in Upper East Tennessee.

White and Hall counties in north Georgia reported tremors. Several callers in Atlanta said they had been awakened by the movement.

Voluntary Ohio Speed Signs Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — One thousand voluntary speed signs and 17 special state vehicles will appear on highways this weekend as Ohio tries to cope with the gasoline shortage.

Gov. John J. Gilligan has asked the State Department of Transportation to begin installing red and white signs saying: "FUEL EMERGENCY, 50 MPH."

Gilligan said he hopes the signs on interstate and state routes will remind motorists to voluntarily slow down and save fuel.

He also announced activation of a special motorist service program "to assist drivers who get caught in the gas station closings."

President Nixon has asked gas stations to close from 9 p.m. Saturday to midnight Sunday to save fuel and cutback on weekend pleasure driving.

Spokesmen for five gasoline retailer associations predicted that nearly 90 per cent of Ohio's 12,000 service stations will close Sunday to comply with Nixon's plea.

However, motorists on Ohio's interstates can expect aid when their automobile gas tanks run dry.

The transportation department will have 11 trucks and six courtesy cars traveling the routes from 4 p.m. Saturday to 8 a.m. Sunday to help motorists.

These vehicles will complement Ohio Highway Patrol cruisers equipped with special gas tanks to help stranded drivers.

"In this cold weather, we're certainly not going to let anyone sit out on the highway and freeze," said Patrol Supt. Robert Chiaramonte's office.

Gilligan said the 50 m.p.h. speed limit will be voluntary and not legally effective.

"Although the state patrol cannot enforce a 50-mile-an-hour limit until the legislature mandates such action, we believe Ohioans will do their part to conserve fuel by driving at reduced speeds," he said.

The 110th General Assembly will be asked in January to approve the lower speeds.

The Ohio Department of Highway Safety said the lower highway speed has reduced traffic deaths.

Director Eugene O'Grady said, "The first two weekends after the announcement of the gasoline shortage, tolls were half of what they had been the previous weekends. We are hopeful this trend continues."

Ziegler had described the system as "lousy."

But Butterfield told newsmen:

"It is unrealistic to think that when the President of the United States gives an order to request equipment be installed in his offices, the Cabinet Room, the Executive Office Building office and on his telephone that the person charged with the responsibility would obtain equipment which would even risk inadequacy."

The court hearing has focused on the 18-minute segment of a June 20 conversation between the President and H.R. Haldeman that was obliterated by a hum. Haldeman preceded Haig as White House chief of staff.

Miss Woods testified she thought she might have caused part of what she called "the gap" by accidentally pushing the record button instead of the stop button when she turned to answer her telephone while transcribing the tape last Oct. 1.

But she said she was certain she had talked on the telephone for no more than four or five minutes and then discovered what she had done.

Buzhardt testified that, with the help of an official of the National Security Agency, he had succeeded in nearly duplicating the two tones that are heard in the 18-minute segment.

Skylab 3 Crew Said Doing Well

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — As they begin their third week in space today, Skylab 3's astronauts are adjusting well to their weightless world after some early setbacks.

However, Mission Control reports their adjustment is taking slightly longer than the first two Skylab crews. Officials blame this on a heavy work load assigned the crew early in the mission.

The work load prompted astronaut Edward G. Gibson to say, "Our first seven or eight days up here were not something I would want to go through again."

"Their performance today on a tough schedule shows they're getting there," Flight Director Charles Lewis reported Thursday. "They're coming along fine. It's just a matter of time."

Lewis said that by the end of the second week, both the Skylab 1 and 2 astronauts had acclimated well and were performing at full capacity. He said the Skylab 3 crew — Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Gibson — should be at that point within a few days.

During the first week, the Skylab 3 astronauts often fell behind in their scheduled activities and at times made small mistakes.

The astronauts planned another busy day of experiments today, with continuing medical checks and observations of the earth, sun, stars and the comet Kohoutek.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices slid lower today in moderately active trading as brokers said investors continued to worry about fuel shortages and their impact on the economy.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 8.05 at 827.06. The New York Stock Exchange's broad-based index was off .44 to 51.44 as declines led advances nearly 3 to 1 among 1,615 issues traded.

Brokers said the selling today was a carry-over from Thursday's late dip, provoked by a government estimate that the economy would grow only 2 per cent next year and an apparent breakoff in Mideast peace talks.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .57 to 93.65. The most-active issues included Cutter Laboratories A, up 4 1/4 to 17 1/4, and Syntex, down 1/4 at 125. Film Corp. of America slid 1 1/4 to 5 1/4.

On the Big Board, most-active Marcor, Inc., off 1/8 at 20 3/4, was followed by Polaroid, down 5 1/2 to 74 1/2; Akzona, off 1 1/4 to 18 1/4; and Bausch & Lomb, down 2 1/2 to 33 1/2. Chrysler dropped 1 to 16 1/2 and General Motors 1 1/2 to 49 1/2.

Airports' Status Changes Rejected

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—"I'm kind of offended," said Arthur F. Hearn, chairman of the Weir Cook Airport Authority, after being notified that Indianapolis was among eight cities that were turned down for consideration for international air status.

"No reason was given (by the Civil Aeronautics Board) why we were not picked nor was there any reference to our petition and its details," Hearn said Thursday.

The CAB ruling stated that "the petitioners failed to demonstrate a valid basis for further enlarging the geographic scope of the proceedings" either for domestic or foreign service, Hearn said.

Barry S. Craig, director of aviation at Greater Cincinnati Airport, which also was turned down for international status, charged that the CAB "didn't even read our petition."

Craig said the airport now plans to have its attorneys contact the other cities involved to see how much interest there is in combining forces and filing a legal document to make the CAB or the courts take action.

"This would have to go to our board and the Chamber of Commerce for approval," Craig said.

Hearn said he was notified by the CAB that the eight cities were denied their requests to be included in a list of 16 other cities which will be considered for nonstop transoceanic flights.

The CAB also turned down Columbus and Dayton, Ohio; Bangor, Maine, Memphis and Nashville, Tenn., and Oakland, Calif.

"The thing I object to in this is that there is no appeal of this CAB decision," Hearn said. "There is no way to say when it will come up again, next year, two years..."

He added, however, "This does not affect our routine orderly plan to become an international airport. We are proceeding with the customs facility plan. We will proceed with our economic need study."

Hearn also headed a special Chamber of Commerce committee to seek international status for Weir Cook. He said the committee will stay in business.

"We had great cooperation from industry and from political people," Hearn said, adding there are 778 firms in Indiana which have international business.

Jaworski's Staff Ripped By Ziegler

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a brief lull following the storm generated by the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, the White House has resumed a full-scale attack on the staff that Cox had assembled.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler Thursday accused the prosecutor's staff of "a certain amount of ingrained suspicion and visceral dislike for this President and for this administration."

But Ziegler was careful to add that he regarded Leon Jaworski, the Houston, Tex., lawyer named to succeed Cox, as "a very respected man, a fair man."

Jaworski was at the federal courthouse when the second Watergate grand jury indicted Dwight L. Chapin, President Nixon's former appointments secretary, on four counts of lying to a grand jury.

Later, Jaworski was asked by newsmen if he thought his honeymoon with the White House was over.

"I don't know there ever was a honeymoon," he replied.

Since he was sworn in as special prosecutor Nov. 5, Jaworski had received repeated promises of full cooperation, including the right to inspect material the White House believes must be withheld on grounds of national security. The promises appeared to go far beyond any Cox ever received.

But, so far, Jaworski has received only a few of the documents he has requested and none of the tapes.

He told reporters outside the courthouse that he thinks all the White House tapes — conversations recorded over a period of more than two years — should be placed in court custody.

"To me, that's just nonsense," commented Ziegler.

But Jaworski said he may ask U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to order the tapes, not just those subpoenaed or requested, not just those dealing with Watergate, turned over to the court.

"I think if I were in the White House, I would like to see them placed in custody so there couldn't be anything happening to them," Jaworski said.

The latest flareup of ill-feeling between the White House and the prosecutor's staff came as lawyers from Jaworski's office conducted intensive questioning of White House staff, including Nixon's personal secretary, at a federal court hearing called to find out what caused an 18-

Fair Skies Rule Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair skies dominated most of the nation today with a few showers and drizzle marring only widely scattered locations.

Temperatures dipped into the 30s in Alabama and Georgia for the second morning in a row. Readings in the Plains were on the mid side.

Snow showers and rain were scattered over the Pacific Northwest and northern California and snow flurries dusted New York state.

A thin cloud cover veiled the Northeast. Clouds also covered areas along the coast of Southern California.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 8 at Minot Air Force Base, N.D., to 64 at Key West, Fla.

Claim Newsmen Spies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Star-News said today it has learned from what it described as authoritative sources that more than three dozen American journalists in foreign countries are doubling as spies for the Central Intelligence Agency.

The world's largest sea is the South China Sea with an area of 1,148 million square miles.

minute segment of one subpoenaed tape to be obliterated by a hum.

After Ziegler blasted the prosecutor's staff, a newsman commented that Jaworski "speaks kindly of that staff."

Ziegler shot back, "Well, I speak unkindly of them."

Rail Service Plan Pushed

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Plain Dealer said Friday that a Pennsylvania Department of Transportation study found a Boston-to-Chicago Amtrack run would support itself financially.

If approved, the passenger train service would be the first in northern Ohio since early 1972.

The Plain Dealer said the report, not yet released, said the run would break even "in a year or so."

According to the report, the train would have stops in Albany, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Toledo, South Bend and Gary, the Plain Dealer said.

The run would be financed by Amtrack and the U.S. Department of Transportation, the Plain Dealer said.

A previous New York-to-Chicago Amtrack route was dropped in 1972 after the federal government told the states involved to appropriate money to offset its losses. Only Ohio offered to put up a share of the money, however, and the route was dropped.

Public Members Of Fuel Panel Said Necessary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—U.S. Senate hopeful Howard M. Metzenbaum has urged President Nixon to include representatives of the public on a panel appointed to help manage fuel allocations.

Metzenbaum referred to the administration's proposal to appoint a 250-member fuel advisory panel at a dinner honoring Vic Everett, president of Teamsters Local 413, here Thursday night.

"This administration has consistently relied upon the oil industry spokesmen, and therein lies much of the source of today's energy crisis," Metzenbaum said.

Metzenbaum said that if the administration wanted to be fair, it would "share the decision-making process with the users as well as the producers."

Elizabeth Taylor Recovers Well From Surgery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Doctors say they discovered no tumors or malignancies during surgery on Elizabeth Taylor and the actress will be released from the hospital next week.

Miss Taylor was described Thursday as "still experiencing the usual amount of post-operative pain," but was said to be "looking great and doing very well."

Surgeons removed an ovarian cyst and corrected an intestinal disorder during the operation at UCLA Medical Center. But they stressed that the 41-year-old actress definitely does not have cancer.

Doctors said she would be allowed no visitors for a few days. But her agent said it was likely her son, Christopher Wilding, and her frequent escort, Henry Wynberg, would probably visit her.

Democrats Hosted By Committee

The Pickaway County Democratic Executive Committee and Central Committee chairmen William A. Stout and Hewitt Cromley hosted the Sixth District Democratic Club Wednesday. Counties represented at the L-K Restaurant were Fayette, Highland, Pike, Ross, Scioto and Pickaway.

Ralph W. Phillips, Sixth District Central Committeeman, chaired the caucus.

Guest speaker, Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker, 88th House District, was introduced by Sheriff Dwight E. Radcliff. Shoemaker spoke informally on legislation matters and concluded with a question and answer session.

John Dobbins from Ross County spoke on behalf of John Glenn, candidate for U.S. Senate. Ted Celeste spoke on behalf of his brother, Representative Richard F. Celeste, candidate for Lt. Governor.

A nominating committee was appointed to present a slate of officers at the January meeting to be held in Pike County. The following were named to serve on the committee: Ralph W. Phillips, Highland County; Mrs. Louise Rodgers, Sixth District Central Committeewoman, Fayette County; John Dobbins, Ross County, and Mrs. Betty McGinnis, Pickaway County. Additional appointees will be named at a later date.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Martha Purcell, Democratic Women's Club President, conducted a drawing for door prizes.

Man Cited In Accident

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy J. Phillip Brown cited Artie Lee Newman, 26, Route 2, for an unsafe vehicle, when he was involved in a single-car accident 5 p.m. Thursday on Kingston-Adelphi-Road.

Newman pulled from a private drive spinning his tires, causing him to lose control of the auto.

The auto came to rest in a ditch.

Newman was knocked unconscious, but refused treatment after gaining consciousness.

High Speed Trips Up 3 Bandits

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri officials expect the FBI to take custody of three men in connection with the $16,000 robbery of the Dollar Savings and Loan Nov. 20 at Youngstown, Ohio. The three were stopped for speeding 78 miles an hour on Interstate 70 near Columbia Wednesday in a new Cadillac.

Benny James Tillman, 20, of Somerset, N.J.; Andrew Duncan, 25, and John Ralph Thomas, 23, both of Youngstown, were arraigned Thursday on charges of possession of stolen property and possession of controlled substances. Judge Joan Pinnell set their bonds at $50,000 each.

Trooper T. J. Halford said a search warrant was obtained to open the trunk of their car.

"We found two sawed-off shotguns and a .38-caliber pistol identified as belonging to a security guard at the Dollar company," Halford said. "And we found the rest of the money they had with them, totaling $6,744." Officers said serial numbers on the money matched that stolen in Youngstown.

Halford said the men bought the Cadillac in New Brunswick, N.J., Monday for $8,400 "so that accounts for almost $15,000."

"They started for California Monday night and might still be on their way if they had just listened to the President about driving slower," Halford said.

The CAB also turned down Columbus and Dayton, Ohio; Bangor, Maine, Memphis and Nashville, Tenn., and Oakland, Calif.

"The thing I object to in this is that there is no appeal of this CAB decision," Hearn said. "There is no way to say when it will come up again, next year, two years..."

He added, however, "This does not affect our routine orderly plan to become an international airport. We are proceeding with the customs facility plan. We will proceed with our economic need study."

Hearn also headed a special Chamber of Commerce committee to seek international status for Weir Cook. He said the committee will stay in business.

"We had great cooperation from industry and from political people," Hearn said, adding there are 778 firms in Indiana which have international business.

Jaworski's Staff Ripped By Ziegler

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a brief lull following the storm generated by the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, the White House has resumed a full-scale attack on the staff that Cox had assembled. Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler Thursday accused the prosecutor's staff of "a certain amount of ingrained suspicion and visceral dislike for this President and for this administration."

But Ziegler was careful to add that he regarded Leon Jaworski, the Houston, Tex., lawyer named to succeed Cox, as "a very respected man, a fair man."

Jaworski was at the federal court-house when the second Watergate grand jury indicted Dwight L. Chapin, President Nixon's former appointments secretary, on four counts of lying to a grand jury.

Later, Jaworski was asked by newsmen if he thought his honeymoon with the White House was over.

"I don't know there ever was a honeymoon," he replied.

Since he was sworn in as special prosecutor Nov. 5, Jaworski had received repeated promises of full cooperation, including the right to inspect material the White House believes must be withheld on grounds of national security. The promises appeared to go far beyond any Cox ever received.

But, so far, Jaworski has received only a few of the documents he has requested and none of the tapes.

He told reporters outside the courthouse that he thinks all the White House tapes — conversations recorded over a period of more than two years — should be placed in court custody.

"To me, that's just nonsense," commented Ziegler.

But Jaworski said he may ask U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to order the tapes, not just those subpoenaed or requested, not just those dealing with Watergate, turned over to the court.

"I think if I were in the White House, I would like to see them placed in custody so there couldn't be anything happening to them," Jaworski said.

The latest flareup of ill-feeling between the White House and the prosecutor's staff came as lawyers from Jaworski's office conducted intensive questioning of White House staff, including Nixon's personal secretary, at a federal court hearing called to find out what caused an 18-

Fair Skies Rule Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair skies dominated most of the nation today with a few showers and drizzle marring only widely scattered locations.

Temperatures dipped into the 30s in Alabama and Georgia for the second morning in a row. Readings in the Plains were on the mild side.

Snow showers and rain were scattered over the Pacific Northwest and northern California and snow flurries dusted New York state.

A thin cloud cover veiled the Northeast. Clouds also covered areas along the coast of Southern California.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 8 at Minot Air Force Base, N.D., to 64 at Key West, Fla.

Claim Newsmen Spies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Star-News said today it has learned from what it described as authoritative sources that more than three dozen American journalists in foreign countries are doubling as spies for the Central Intelligence Agency.

The world's largest sea is the South China Sea with an area of 1,148 million square miles.

Democrats Hosted By Committee

The Pickaway County Democratic Executive Committee and Central Committee chairmen William A. Stout and Hewitt Cromley hosted the Sixth District Democratic Club Wednesday. Counties represented at the L-K Restaurant were Fayette, Highland, Pike, Ross, Scioto and Pickaway.

Ralph W. Phillips, Sixth District Central Committeeman, chaired the caucus.

Guest speaker, Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker, 88th House District, was introduced by Sheriff Dwight E. Radcliff. Shoemaker spoke informally on legislation matters and concluded with a question and answer session.

John Dobbins from Ross County spoke on behalf of John Glenn, candidate for U.S. Senate. Ted Celeste spoke on behalf of his brother, Representative Richard F. Celeste, candidate for Lt. Governor.

A nominating committee was appointed to present a slate of officers at the January meeting to be held in Pike County. The following were named to serve on the committee: Ralph W. Phillips, Highland County; Mrs. Louise Rodgers, Sixth District Central Committeewoman, Fayette County; John Dobbins, Ross County, and Mrs. Betty McGinnis, Pickaway County. Additional appointees will be named at a later date.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Martha Purcell, Democratic Women's Club President, conducted a drawing for door prizes.

Man Cited In Accident

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy J. Phillip Brown cited Artie Lee Newman, 26, Route 2, for an unsafe vehicle, when he was involved in a single-car accident 5 p.m. Thursday on Kingston-Adelphi-Road.

Newman pulled from a private drive spinning his tires, causing him to lose control of the auto.

The auto came to rest in a ditch. Newman was knocked unconscious, but refused treatment after gaining consciousness.

High Speed Trips Up 3 Bandits

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri officials expect the FBI to take custody of three men in connection with the $16,000 robbery of the Dollar Savings and Loan Nov. 20 at Youngstown, Ohio.

The three were stopped for speeding 78 miles an hour on Interstate 70 near Columbia Wednesday in a new Cadillac.

Benny James Tillman, 20, of Somerset, N.J.; Andrew Duncan, 25, and John Ralph Thomas, 23, both of Youngstown, were arraigned Thursday on charges of possession of stolen property and possession of controlled substances. Judge Joan Pinnell set their bonds at $50,000 each.

Trooper T. J. Halford said a search warrant was obtained to open the trunk of their car.

"We found two sawed-off shotguns and a .38-caliber pistol identified as belonging to a security guard at the Dollar company," Halford said. "And we found the rest of the money they had with them, totaling $6,744." Officers said serial numbers on the money matched that stolen in Youngstown.

Halford said the men bought the Cadillac in New Brunswick, N.J., Monday for $8,400 "so that accounts for almost $15,000."

"They started for California Monday night and might still be on their way if they had just listened to the President about driving slower," Halford said.

Fighting Flares Across Indochina

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Khmer Rouge insurgents routed the government garrison from the village of Vihear Suor, 12 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, early today after weeks of siege.

More than 500 troops and civilians were reported dead or missing.

Soldiers who escaped from the outpost on the east side of the Mekong River said the Khmer Rouge attacked about 11 p.m. Thursday under cover of a mortar, rocket and tear gas barrage.

The garrison's assistant commander said 200 soldiers and 150 civilians were lost in the initial attack. He reported that when the insurgents reached the garrison headquarters and hospital they shot 57 wounded soldiers in the hospital.

Other officers from Vihear Suor said

Rocks Used To Break Windows

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Deal investigated three reports of destruction of property and vandalism in the northern part of the county between 3:15 a.m. and 3:40 a.m. Friday.

Harold Darst, Route 2, Orient, reported vandals damaged four windows at his home 3:15 a.m. Friday.

According to the report taken by Deputy Deal, rocks, the size of a baseball, were thrown through the windows.

Damage to the windows was estimated at $67.

Rocks were also thrown through windows at the Greg Hall residence, Route 2, Ashville, 3:30 a.m. Friday causing an estimated damage of $275 and the Jink Fields residence, Route 1, Lockbourne 3:40 a.m. causing an estimated $40 damage to two windows.

Set Tighter Security On Campus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University officials are considering additional security precautions on the campus following the murder of research assistant Beverly Lee in her office at Lincoln Tower.

"We will try to determine if anything could have been done to prevent it (the crime)," said a spokesman for OSU President Harold Einarson.

Mrs. Lee, 32, was found Wednesday on the floor next to her desk in her soundproofed fourth floor office. Police said she was stabbed six times in the neck, back and chest. The weapon was not found.

Police said they had not been able to determine a motive and had no suspects.

Authorities said the killer easily could have gotten onto the fourth floor of the building, murdered Mrs. Lee and left unnoticed.

They said three elevators and two fire escapes lead to the floor.

Technicians from the Bureau of Criminal Identification in London were brought into the case.

Lordstown GM Firm Hit By Fire

LORDSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—General Motors Corp. officials said they were investigating the cause of a fire late Thursday at a storage building in the GM plant complex here.

The company said it sent 1,300 workers home after the fire, although later shifts today were not interrupted.

A GM spokesman said the fire began in a tire and rubber foam storage building. He said the complex' fire units were aided by firetrucks from both Youngstown and Warren and that the blaze was extinguished quickly.

He said there was no immediate estimate of damage.

Air Pollution Program Given To Rotarians

James Nickelson was the guest speaker at Thursday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club. Nickelson is superintendent of Process Engineering of the Ternstadt Division of General Motors in Columbus.

The presentation included a film on the auto air pollution control program. Nickelson passed out pamphlets to the Rotarians explaining the new catalytic converter which will replace the present emission controls. The new converter is expected to be in use in a few years.

Nickelson explained that the major air pollutant and main cause of poisonous air is sulfur dioxide. Coal is presently one of the major sources of sulfur dioxide.

After Nickelson's talk, Rotarians discussed and made plans for the annual auction for crippled children. The project was very successful last year.

Guests at the meeting at the L-K Restaurant were A. B. Cook, R. Schachne, Bob Liston, Howard Smith, Charles Radcliffe, Al Martin and Don Harden.

Westerners Discourage Settlers

WASHINGTON (AP) — In recent years, some Western states extolled for their scenic beauty and cleaner air have been trying to discourage, subtly and otherwise, more settlers within their borders.

The migration to Oregon, Colorado and other such states is a long-in-progress movement, and the statisticians have noted easily the high growth rates in areas that attract those seeking the "Rocky Mountain high" or just a home closer to better skiing.

The effects on the air in some of those places, on that scenery and on the elbow-room are what have prompted those officials to say, basically, "Visit if you have to, but please don't stay." An economist-researcher with the Agriculture Department recently finished a study of the impact of urbanization on rural lands in three northern Colorado counties, Boulder, Weld and Larimer.

In the 14 years before 1969, the last year of a period Raymond L. Anderson studied with aerial photographs and land records, 15,000 rural acres went out of rural usage.

Nearly 10,000 acres of those 23 square miles along the Front Range of the Rockies went into residential development, two-thirds of it dense subdivisions.

Between 1960 and 1972, Anderson found, 330 rural subdivisions were recorded. They amounted to 13,500 lots on 16,800 acres. Using his most conservative projection, the 9,000 of those lots which were vacant these spring — 10,500 acres' worth — will be settled on at a rate of about six a day for the next four years, depending on development costs and water and sewer availability.

In the next 17 years, he projects, between 17,000 and 51,000 more rural acres could be urbanized, making migration in search of "wide open spaces" by both industries and individuals self-defeating activity.

Rural-domestic water districts in the Front Range that grew up in the mid-1960s led to sharp increases in more open use of the organized land, he found, as more water — the region's most precious and "politically hot" resource — was pumped into the countryside.

The subdivision development preceded the anticipated population growth in the three-county area, which doubled in residents between 1949 and 1969 and is expected to double again by 1990 to 634,009 persons. The total urbanized area, 50,000 acres last year, is expected to range between 72,000 and 126,000 acres by 1990.

Trailer parks occupied only about 400 acres of the rural land but had the highest population density of any of the urban uses, Anderson said.

about 450 troops and more than 300 civilians fled from the village and ran into an ambush about half a mile to the south. They said the crowd panicked and split up, heading southeast and southwest to get around a Khmer Rouge village.

Many women and small children were reported drowned in the swampy marshes that surround Vihear Suor.

Helicopters landed a company of government reinforcements south of the hamlet Thursday night, but they were unable to fight their way past the Khmer Rouge.

Today Cambodian air force fighter-bombers were attacking Vihear Suor to destroy equipment the garrison had left behind, and six C47 gunships were attacking Khmer Rouge positions in the area.

The loss of Vihear Suor left the government only two small positions in that general area east of the Mekong. A Western military attache said the Khmer Rouge now will be able to collect a sizable rice harvest and also has unhindered use of the Tole Toch river from south of Kompong Cham to the Mekong east of Phnom Penh.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese military sources said that government warplanes attacked a North Vietnamese convoy near the Cambodian border in the central highlands this morning and destroyed two trucks, setting off secondary explosions that indicated they were carrying fuel or ammunition.

The sources said at least 10 trucks were spotted moving from Cambodia along a jungle trail about 12 miles northwest of Ban Don, a government camp 160 miles northeast of Saigon.

The convoy was believed to be hauling supplies to North Vietnamese forces in the border province of Quang Duc. Early this month the Communists captured three government camps there, and on Wednesday government rangers retook one of them.

The Viet Cong charged that the South Vietnamese air force made 30 bombing attacks Tuesday on a populous area about seven miles southwest of Loc Ninh. The Communists said the planes dropped more than 100 bombs and fired rockets at the Viet Cong stronghold north of Saigon.

A Page Of Opinion

Winter Is Here

Frozen thermometers and snowstorms in some northern latitudes notwithstanding, winter is not yet here, the weatherman contends. Weather etiquette demands no formal recognition of the cold waves blanketing much of the United States until Dec. 21. Winter then becomes official.

On Dec. 21, the Northern Hemisphere reaches the point in its delicate maneuverings with the sun when daylight hours number the fewest. That occasion, for some reason, has been chosen for the official observance of winter.

Dec. 21 is not, however, the coldest point of the season. That rather dubious honor falls in a period four to six weeks later, usually around the first of February.

Nor is it the distance between the earth and the sun which determines the temperature on this planet. It is instead the tilt

Would it be safe to say that Isabel Peron is only one helpmeet away from the Presidency of Argentina?

Or that bedfellows make strange politics?

I guess not.

Complaint from an Arab diplomat: "I don't understand you Americans. You periodically rush to the defense of Israel, because it is a brave little nation intent on maintaining its place in the Middle East. But at the end of these wars of defense, Israel always winds up with more territory than it had before it made the brave defense of itself. And you Americans are known around the world as the people most opposed to territorial gains through war."

The N.Y. Times, after much soul-searching, has decided that beginning next month it will refer to all males mentioned in its stories and editorials as "Mr." even though they have criminal backgrounds. Heretofore, the honorific was denied to the likes of, say, Al Capone, Machine Gun Kelly, Legs Diamond, Hitler, Charles Manson and others. Now, everybody's going to be Mr.

The announcement made no mention of how the Times will refer to young males, and one hopes and prays it won't fall into the snafu we once had at dear old International News Service when the same kind of rule was promulgated. I believe it was our Phyllis Battelle who, in the course of a feature she was doing on the childhood of some Hollywood bull butterfly, was forced to write something like, "When six-months-old, Mr. Lovejoy said 'Goo.'"

Unfortunately, the Times sports pages will knock the Mr. off its denizens. Otherwise, we could look forward to many chuckles. It will be nice to read them for example, "Mr. Aaron then hit the next pitch delivered by Mr. Seaver over Mr. Jones's head in left field for a home run, breaking Mr. Ruth's record."

We had something just the opposite on the Washington Post many years ago. The management became incensed over something that Goose Goslin, the star slugger of the Washington team had or had not done, and ordered his name deleted from the stories. It was worse, in a way, than the act of Col. R. R. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune some years later. McCormick had a star removed from the Trib's American flag because he didn't like something a state had done.

Anyway, the embargo on Goslin came at an inconvenient time. He was in a whale of a hitting streak, forcing our baseball writer Frank Young to tap out such sentences as, "After Joe Judge and Sam Rice had rifled singles through the infield, they scored on a titanic home run over the right field wall." Anyway, Good Gray Times, rots ruck with your expanded use of Mr. — let's hear more about Mr. Ehrlichman, Mr. Watsinsname who fixed the Soap Box Derby, Mr. Vesco, Mr. Faisal and, of course, Mr. America.

In a recent rundown on the wonders of Pioneer 10, which reaches the vicinity of the planet Jupiter December 3, forgot to mention that it will be making a stop. It will flash by the heavenly body (bigger than all the other planets combined) at about 70,000 miles per hour, and then zip away and away and away — after sending back its snapshots.

How far away, away, away it will go is something to boggle, or cripple, man's imagination. A crisp note from Christmas Light Ban Unnecessary?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Governmental action to prohibit the use of Christmas lights would do little more than cause the utility companies to lose revenue, Ohio's Public Utilities Commission has been told.

D. Bruce Mansfield, president of the Ohio Edison Co., Akron, told a meeting of commission members and electric utility executives Wednesday that electricity is available for the holiday season for the burning of lights at night because it is a period of low demand.

If there is a governmental order to ban the lights, "all it will do is cause the electric utilities to lose revenue," said Mansfield.

He and the executives of six other Ohio electric utilities met with commission members and gave assurances that they will have no problem meeting the state's needs in the next year if they can continue to obtain and burn coal, Chairman Edmund J. Turk said.

Mansfield said he does not believe Ohio faces a serious problem at present "other than a frantic scramble by the eastern states to buy coal and oil in Ohio, West Virginia, and Kentucky."

Unlike most of the eastern seaboard states, Ohio's electric utilities rely on coal for about 95 per cent of their production as opposed to use of petroleum products by those states.

Ohio Power Co.'s E.E. Fournace, Canton, told the commission his firm mines about 40 to 45 per cent of the coal it uses in the production of electricity. Ohio Power's only present problem, he said, is in getting fuel to operate its strip mine reclamation equipment to meet stringent requirements of Ohio's new strip mine law.

He agreed with Mansfield and the others that Ohio could wind up with a problem if it is forced to share its Every morning I cough up a small amount of blood. This has been happening for two years.

It never happens during the day, and so I have been doing nothing about it.

Now my wife wants me to have a test for cancer or tuberculosis even though I am in excellent health.

Do you think this is necessary?

Mr. J.M.V., Ohio

Dear Mr. V.:

There really should be no conflict between you and your wife about the need for a medical checkup to explain your symptoms.

The chances are great that the small amount of blood you cough up is not significant. Yet better judgment dictates that its cause must be tracked down.

Hemoptysis, the technical term for coughing up blood, of course does not necessarily suggest tuberculosis or cancer.

In most instances, such as you describe, bleeding may come from the gums, or a break in the tiny blood vessel in the back of the nose, the throat or behind the tongue.

Active "hawking" can put enough pressure on these little blood vessels to break one.

Despite the fact that the cause of your bleeding is probably unimportant, a general examination, including X-ray of the chest, is most certainly advisable.

Both you and your wife will benefit emotionally when you learn that the cause of the bleeding is unimportant.

My son has allergies of the nose. He uses nose drops or a spray constantly.

I can't get him to stop. Can't this be dangerous after a while?

Mrs. E.R., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Many people who have stuffiness of the nose try to open the nasal passage by using nose drops.

All of the preparations on the market are related to ephedrine or some synthetic variation of it. These drugs undoubtedly are temporarily effective in "shrinking" the mucous lining of the nose, offering small periods of relief.

Unfortunately, many people, especially those with an allergic tendency, develop a secondary reactionary swelling to these nasal drugs. The result is that it becomes necessary to use larger and larger quantities at more frequent intervals.

This is known as a "rebound phenomenon." It actually resembles an addiction, or true dependence.

Another by-product is that the delicate lining of the nose ceases to function properly, and perpetuates the blockage of the nose and inability to breathe through it properly.

There are many ways to break this habit. One of the effective means is to use small quantities of cortisone as a temporary substitute. Of course, this is given only by a doctor who carefully observes the patient's reactions to it.

Politics, Petroleum Mix In National Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blend petroleum and politics and you have the makings of an explosion. That is evident to the White House and to Congress, where the House and one-third of the Senate will face the voters in 1974.

Some political issues are abstractions. Not so with an empty gasoline tank or a chilly household.

There are warnings from Democrats that the energy crisis could bring on a recession and soaring unemployment next year.

In Congress, some Democratic leaders are blaming President Nixon for the current crisis, contending he should have seen it coming long ago, and taken steps to avoid the emergency.

Nixon has said that Congress until recently dragged its feet on his legislative proposals in the energy field.

So while the crisis is confronted, the debate begins. It is sure to intensify during the election year ahead.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okl., has accused the administration of deceit, and says Congress should tell the nation that stringent rationing and conservation measures are "our only hope of riding out the difficult winter just ahead and the difficult years which will follow."

Albert said it is fantasy for the administration to claim that things are under control, or that Congress is responsible for "the long history of mismanagement and neglect in which the energy crisis has its origins."

Politics aside, it may be that history is catching up with the United States. Neither the administration nor Congress created the American style of living that consumes nearly one-third of the world's energy.

That isn't likely to dampen the argument about blame, for the energy crisis is sure to be a major issue in next year's elections.

Maneuvering over gasoline rationing provides a preview. An amendment to require rationing by next Jan. 15 was defeated by an eight-vote margin in the Senate. It may come up again when the House considers emergency energy legislation.

Some Democrats, including Albert and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, advocate rationing now. Mansfield, Albert and others have expressed concern at the prospect of tax or price action designed to curtail consumption by making a gallon of gas cost perhaps twice as much as it does today. Mansfield said that would put an outrageous burden on those least able to pay.

Although some of his energy advisers have forecast gas rationing soon, President Nixon has played down that option, saying his goal is to make rationing unnecessary.

His reasoning is essentially political. Nixon has said that in peacetime, gasoline rationing would stir public opposition and bureaucratic problems.

Burley Tobacco At Record High

RIPLEY, Ohio (AP) — Burley tobacco auctions will reopen Monday at Ohio's only market here after closing out the first week's sales at record levels.

Burley went for a record average of $91.85 per hundredweight Thursday with some lots as high as $95.

Farmers sold 248,850 pounds for $228,558.56. Sales for the first week were 1,392,426 pounds for $1.2 million for an average of $87.81.

Late maturing crops were believed to have forced up the prices.

Some Live For Magic

NEW YORK (AP) — Study witchcraft on staid, tidy Staten Island? No better place, says Dr. Carlyle Haaland, an assistant professor of religious studies, who taught a course this year on the occult at the island's Wagner College.

"In reality, it is well-educated, middle-class people who have nice homes and doctorates — people you wouldn't classify as cultural dropouts—who are very much active in such areas," Haaland said.

Haaland explained that in America there is flourishing a counter-culture that provides people with a second, mystical lifestyle.

"They live schizophrenic lives," he said. "They work their 9-to-5 jobs but come home to a magical world, the one they live for."

Albert said it is fantasy for the administration to claim that things are under control, or that Congress is responsible for "the long history of mismanagement and neglect in which the energy crisis has its origins."

Politics aside, it may be that history is catching up with the United States. Neither the administration nor Congress created the American style of living that consumes nearly one-third of the world's energy.

That isn't likely to dampen the argument about blame, for the energy crisis is sure to be a major issue in next year's elections.

Maneuvering over gasoline rationing provides a preview. An amendment to require rationing by next Jan. 15 was defeated by an eight-vote margin in the Senate. It may come up again when the House considers emergency energy legislation.

Some Democrats, including Albert and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, advocate rationing now. Mansfield, Albert and others have expressed concern at the prospect of tax or price action designed to curtail consumption by making a gallon of gas cost perhaps twice as much as it does today. Mansfield said that would put an outrageous burden on those least able to pay.

Although some of his energy advisers have forecast gas rationing soon, President Nixon has played down that option, saying his goal is to make rationing unnecessary.

His reasoning is essentially political. Nixon has said that in peacetime, gasoline rationing would stir public opposition and bureaucratic problems.

Burley Tobacco At Record High

RIPLEY, Ohio (AP) — Burley tobacco auctions will reopen Monday at Ohio's only market here after closing out the first week's sales at record levels.

Burley went for a record average of $91.85 per hundredweight Thursday with some lots as high as $95.

Farmers sold 248,850 pounds for $228,558.56. Sales for the first week were 1,392,426 pounds for $1.2 million for an average of $87.81.

Late maturing crops were believed to have forced up the prices.

Some Live For Magic

NEW YORK (AP) — Study witchcraft on staid, tidy Staten Island?

No better place, says Dr. Carlyle Haaland, an assistant professor of religious studies, who taught a course this year on the occult at the island's Wagner College.

"In reality, it is well-educated, middle-class people who have nice homes and doctorates — people you wouldn't classify as cultural dropouts—who are very much active in such areas," Haaland said.

Haaland explained that in America there is flourishing a counter-culture that provides people with a second, mystical lifestyle.

"They live schizophrenic lives," he said. "They work their 9-to-5 jobs but come home to a magical world, the one they live for."

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and

The Press Vs Mr. Nixon

By JIM BISHOP

The aversion of the newspapers to attack the President is best exemplified in the lack of interest displayed in an interview with Alfred C. Baldwin on October 4, 1972. Baldwin was a member of the Watergate raiders. He told The Los Angeles Times that he did not feel that he and the others were committing a criminal act; "... we were working with the former Attorney General John Mitchell ... the top lawman in the United States."

Baldwin's assertion should have made the front page of most newspapers. It was not until October 27th, 11 days before election, that Daniel Schorr of CBS interviewed Baldwin. Walter Cronkite and Schorr chatted on a split screen and Schorr said: "So, though the indictments stopped at the seven, it was clear that there were links reaching into the White House and into the Nixon campaign organization."

Four nights later, Dan Rather announced: "The President's men keep insisting that in our system everyone is innocent until proven guilty. They keep issuing general denials. They are depending on that and silence to make the allegations go away." It was a big bomb or a bum rap.

For the American electorate, time was ticking out. Why didn't the White House Press Corps demand specific responses to serious allegations? James Perry, in his book, "Us & Them," published by Clarkson N. Potter, states, "... it seemed to many of us, The Washington Post had a lock on the story." In sum, because Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein had been mining the Watergate material all along, the inclination of the bureau chiefs was to lay off the story.

Deeper than that was acceptance of the White House defense: "What the hell could the Democrats possibly have that we would want to steal?" In addition, it was an "if" story. If the allegations were true, then the Watergate story was indeed a blockbuster. If it wasn't, and if the press played it up, Nixon's fury toward the reporters would have basis in fact.

Editors became troubled. Withholding judgment on guilt or innocence is good newspaper policy, but wasn't the President the man who, on national television, pronounced a California man guilty of a crime before a jury judged him? And when Lieutenant William Calley had been found guilty of the My Lai massacre, had not this President ordered him not to be sent to a military prison, and hadn't he said he would eventually review the findings of the military court?

The New York Times worried about Watergate. Word was sent to the White House: "We just don't know if the Washington Post has got anything or not ... We believe there must be a reasonable explanation and we're willing to listen."

This is hardly the demeanor of a tigerish press. It tends toward dereliction of duty. "We didn't work as hard on Watergate as we might have," Perry says. "There is no excuse for it." The President, whose posture is secretive, became more so in the dying of the 143 days between the burglary and the safety of reelection.

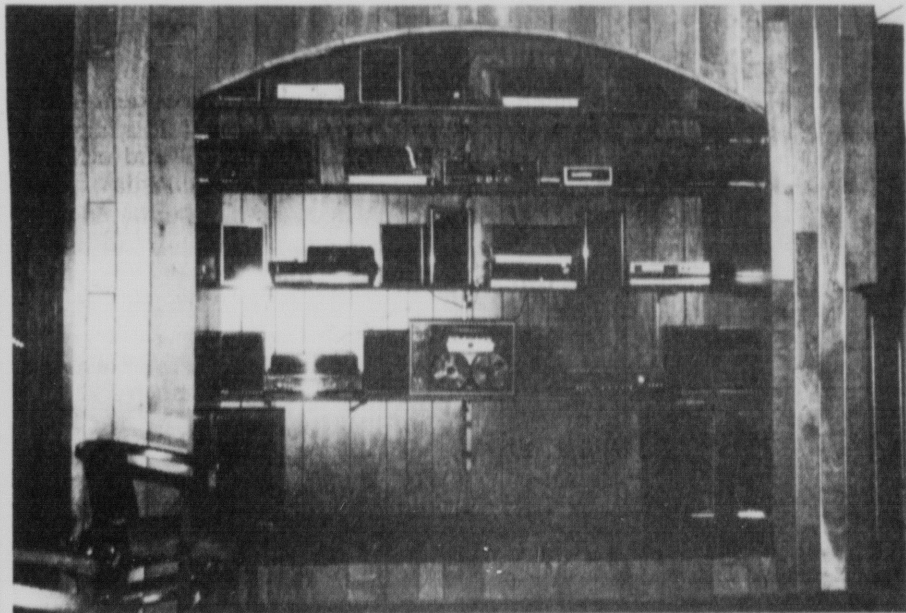

Busloads of reporters and photographers followed him on his abbreviated campaign tour, but couldn't seem to reach the President. From a distance, they heard him through loudspeakers. When they had questions, they were asked of Ronald Ziegler, Press Secretary.

The newspapers were either timid or disarmed. The press pundits concentrated on Nixon's "sound policies" and the imminence in the Southeast of "Peace with Honor." It was far, far better to think of Watergate as a simple cops-and-robbers case than to dare to surmise that the President would countenance burglary, bribery, and the bludgeoning of corporations who might have litigation pending in the Justice Department or the Securities and Exchange Commission.

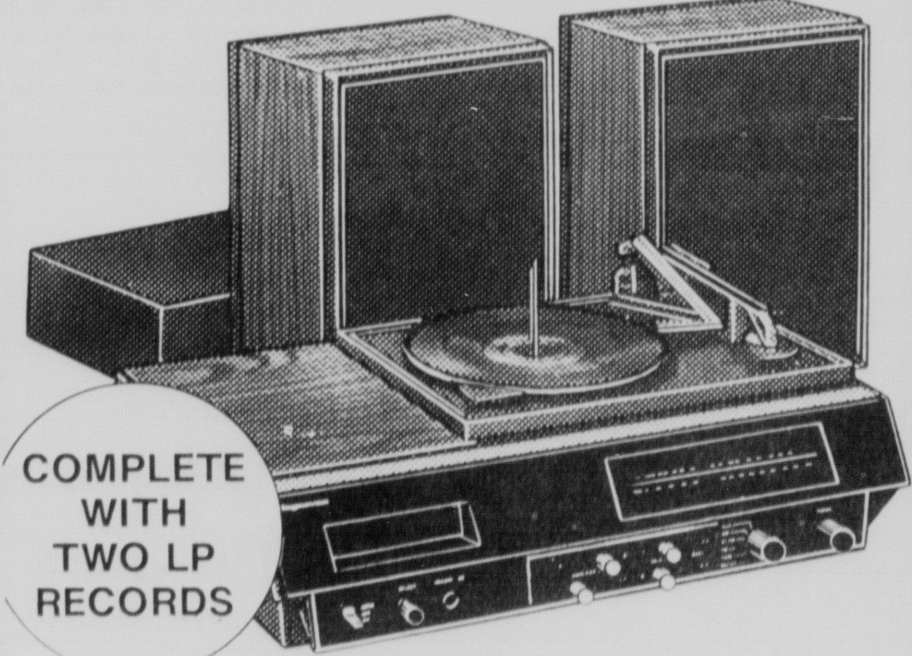

David Broder, political writer for The Washington Post, sounded the alarm too late. He noted that Richard Nixon had been available to the press only once since renomination. The election was at hand and the President was using television and small pre-selected live audiences to enunciate his views. "As a lawyer," Broder wrote, "Richard Nixon knows that if he were as highhanded with the jury as he's being in this campaign, he'd risk being cited for contempt of court." He called Nixon a "touring emperor."

The 143rd day arrived and Nixon was swept into office. He had a mandate from the people, he said. Those of us who regard ourselves as reporters of discernment and conscience helped make Richard Nixon. Those who think the press destroyed Nixon have it backwards. He destroyed himself. ...

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and

The Press Vs Mr. Nixon

By JIM BISHOP

The aversion of the newspapers to attack the President is best exemplified in the lack of interest displayed in an interview with Alfred C. Baldwin on October 4, 1972. Baldwin was a member of the Watergate raiders. He told The Los Angeles Times that he did not feel that he and the others were committing a criminal act; "... we were working with the former Attorney General John Mitchell ... the top lawman in the United States."

Baldwin's assertion should have made the front page of most newspapers. It was not until October 27th, 11 days before election, that Daniel Schorr of CBS interviewed Baldwin. Walter Cronkite and Schorr chatted on a split screen and Schorr said: "So, though the indictments stopped at the seven, it was clear that there were links reaching into the White House and into the Nixon campaign organization."

Four nights later, Dan Rather announced: "The President's men keep insisting that in our system everyone is innocent until proven guilty. They keep issuing general denials. They are depending on that and silence to make the allegations go away." It was a big bomb or a bum rap.

For the American electorate, time was ticking out. Why didn't the White House Press Corps demand specific responses to serious allegations? James Perry, in his book, "Us & Them," published by Clarkson N. Potter, states, "... it seemed to many of us, The Washington Post had a look on the story." In sum, because Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein had been mining the Watergate material all along, the inclination of the bureau chiefs was to lay off the story.

Deeper than that was acceptance of the White House defense: "What the hell could the Democrats possibly have that we would want to steal?" In addition, it was an "if" story. If the allegations were true, then the Watergate story was indeed a blockbuster. If it wasn't, and if the press played it up, Nixon's fury toward the reporters would have basis in fact.

Editors became troubled. Withholding judgment on guilt or innocence is good newspaper policy, but wasn't the President the man who, on national television, pronounced a California man guilty of a crime before a jury judged him? And when Lieutenant William Calley had been found guilty of the My Lai massacre, had not this President ordered him not to be sent to a military prison, and hadn't he said he would eventually review the findings of the military court?

The New York Times worried about Watergate. Word was sent to the White House: "We just don't know if the Washington Post has got anything or not ... We believe there must be a reasonable explanation and we're willing to listen."

This is hardly the demeanor of a tigerish press. It tends toward dereliction of duty. "We didn't work as hard on Watergate as we might have," Perry says. "There is no excuse for it." The President, whose posture is secretive, became more so in the dying of the 143 days between the burglary and the safety of reelection.

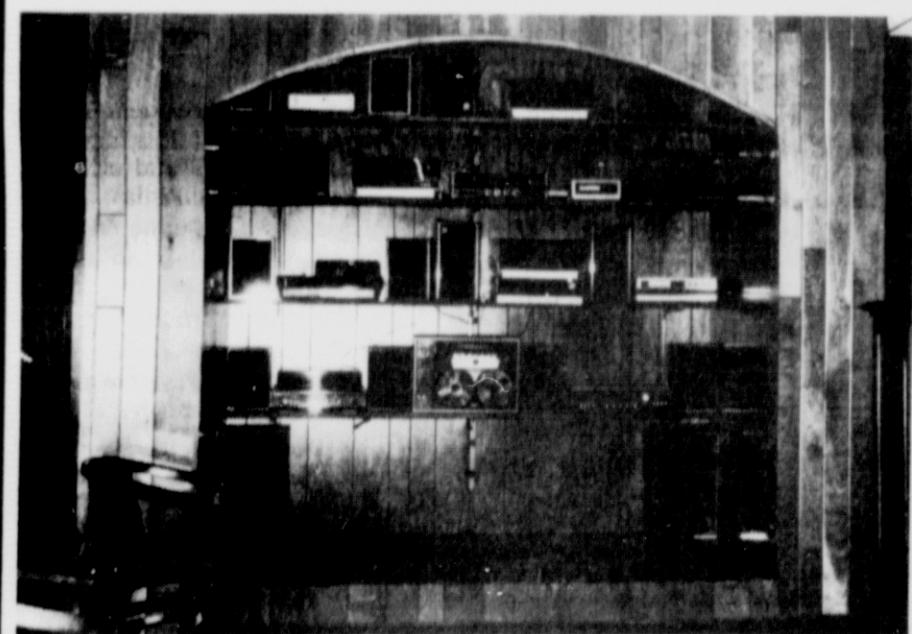

Busloads of reporters and photographers followed him on his abbreviated campaign tour, but couldn't seem to reach the President. From a distance, they heard him through loudspeakers. When they had questions, they were asked of Ronald Ziegler, Press Secretary.

The newspapers were either timid or disarmed. The press pundits concentrated on Nixon's "sound policies" and the imminence in the Southeast of "Peace with Honor." It was far, far better to think of Watergate as a simple cops-and-robbers case than to dare to surmise that the President would countenance burglary, bribery, and the bludgeoning of corporations who might have litigation pending in the Justice Department or the Securities and Exchange Commission.

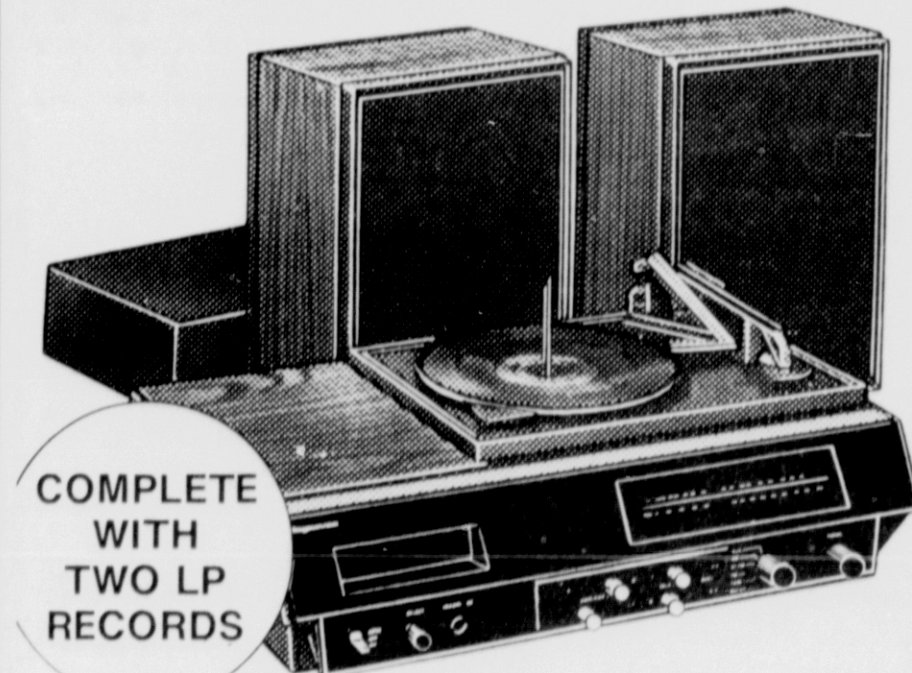

David Broder, political writer for The Washington Post, sounded the alarm too late. He noted that Richard Nixon had been available to the press only once since renomination. The election was at hand and the President was using television and small pre-selected live audiences to enunciate his views. "As a lawyer," Broder wrote, "Richard Nixon knows that if he were as highhanded with the jury as he's being in this campaign, he'd risk being cited for contempt of court." He called Nixon a "touring emperor."

The 143rd day arrived and Nixon was swept into office. He had a mandate from the people, he said. Those of us who regard ourselves as reporters of discernment and conscience helped make Richard Nixon. Those who think the press destroyed Nixon have it backwards. He destroyed himself. ...

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

He took prison rap

DEAR ABBY: I am in prison, but please don't say where. I pleaded guilty to a charge of child molesting, even though I was innocent. I did it to protect my cousin from the harm that prison life can do to a person. My cousin, who did the molesting, had never been in prison, and I had.

Now everyone in my family hates me because I had to make them believe I was guilty. If I tell the truth now, I will probably be released, but my cousin will have to serve time.

How can I get forgiveness from my family and still protect my cousin?

WITHHOLD MY NAME
DEAR WITH: Anyone who would molest a child is sick and in need of treatment. Although you meant well, you did your cousin no favor by taking the rap for him. Now he is free to molest other children while you are being unjustly punished. My advice to you is to confess innocence to the charge, and guilty to lying about it.

DEAR ABBY: You were asked if it was proper to send a sympathy card to parents who had had a full term stillborn child. You said it was.

We disagree. We waited six years for a baby, and when he finally arrived, he was stillborn. Our family and friends knew how we felt, and sympathy cards were the last thing we wanted.

Everybody has a right to his own opinion, and ours is that it is better not to send sympathy cards for a stillborn baby.

It has been 32 years now, but we still remember.

NAMELESS
DEAR NAMELESS: I respect your opinion. But because funerals are generally indicated for full term infants, I would assume that the grieving parents would appreciate expression of sympathy from friends.

DEAR ABBY: This is how I cured

my husband of using objectionable language. I bought a piggy bank, and every time he used a swear word I made him put a quarter in it. And when he used a really DIRTY word, I fined him a dollar. He quit swearing in three weeks. Once in a while he slips and uses a dirty word, and he's a lot better than he used to be.

Pass this on to your readers, Abby. It really works!

PIGGY BANK PEGGY
DEAR PEGGY: Consider it done!
DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old man who has never married. When I meet an unattached woman at a social gathering, I always introduce myself as a widower. If I should date her later on I then tell her the truth. Why do I lie at first?

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: Because you probably think most people would assume there must be something wrong with a 55-year-old man who never married. It's a false assumption, of course. Many 55-year-olds (women and men) have remained unmarried through choice. Play it straight. They might wonder why you lied in the first place.

THE RIGHT ONE

Barbie has a boy friend—her first! There'll be many more. But someday Barbie will have a boy friend—her last! And there'll be an engagement, and a wedding, and a wonderful life together with their children . . .

If he's THE RIGHT ONE!

Barbie's present boy friend is being brought up the way Barbie is—in fact, they met at Sunday School! Their families worship regularly . . . they seek the same moral and spiritual aims.

But, what about THE RIGHT ONE? Is this fiance-to-be receiving the same sound preparation for tomorrow? Are his parents building the future on the firm foundation of religious faith? Will he be right for Barbie?

The church bells that ring every Sunday are not wedding bells. But they sound the destiny of our sons and daughters . . . and of their families yet unborn.

Radioactive Waste Problems Multiply

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — On a windswept strip of Idaho desert, workmen unload white steel barrels from a truck, stack them four high on sheets of plywood and wrap them in plastic. That's the impermanent resting place for a permanent problem of the nuclear age— what to do with radioactive wastes, some of which are expected to be deadly for the next 250,000 years.

On an 88-acre corner of the National Reactor Testing Station, the Atomic Energy Commission is storing waste material from its test laboratories and plants.

Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus and other state officials say they don't want the radioactive waste stored in the state because they fear it could contaminate a huge underwater aquifer that supplies drinking water.

AEC officials say there is no danger but have promised to find a final resting spot for the long-lived material somewhere else and start moving it there before 1980.

Radioactive waste—such as water from nuclear reactors and contaminated pipes, rags, tools, coveralls and gloves—are stored above ground in steel barrels and heavy plywood boxes which have been reinforced with a thick layer of fiberglass.

It is stored above ground to keep it away from moisture and to make it easy to retrieve for moving.

In the years after the reactor test station opened in 1951, radioactive wastes were simply sealed in steel barrels or boxes and buried. Now some of them have to be exhumed.

"Since some of the barrels weren't supposed to last more than 20 years, we presume they've lost their integrity now," says Dr. Wayne Bills, who is director of waste management.

That means the AEC faces a lengthy and costly process of digging up the "hot" material and repackaging it. Millions of dollars will be spent to exhume and relocate the 200,000 barrels and boxes.

The biggest problem concerns storing plutonium. Its emissions can be easily stopped but the material disintegrates slowly—it takes 24,000 years to lose half its radioactivity and a quarter-million years to become harmless.

"We figure some of this material has to be kept under surveillance for 250,000 years minimum," says Bills.

Above and below ground there is a total of over 3 million cubic feet of nuclear waste stored in Idaho in over 250,000 steel drums and other containers.

But there's plenty of room at the 88-acre above-ground site for more barrels, says Dr. George Wehmann, a waste management official.

It will take at least four years to fill the current storage pad, which sits atop a thick asphalt layer.

Seven more pads could be built in the same area and there probably are other places to store waste at the test facility which covers 572,000 acres, an area three-fourths the size of Rhode Island.

Besides getting contaminated material from its own test reactors, shipments arrive from the AEC's Rocky Flats, Colo., facility. Wehmann says about 1,000 barrels of Uranium 235 will be shipped from Pittsburgh, Pa., over the next two years and the AEC is likely to approve shipment of nuclear wastes from a similar facility in Ohio.

The testing station has waste treatment and reclaiming facilities. About 99.5 per cent of the enriched uranium in "used" fuel rods that power nuclear reactors is recovered.

And by converting radioactive liquids to solids, about 90 per cent of them are eliminated.

Bills said much of the low level radioactive waste material is stored in underground 300,000-gallon tanks.

"We figure our tank life at 100 to 150 years," Bills said. "We've been operating them for 21 years here so far without a trace of trouble."

Most of the material handled through the facility is expected to lose its radioactivity in 10 to 15 years, so matter stored in some of the tanks probably is inert now, officials say.

Some liquid waste arrives at the site boiling from the radioactive material it contains. It takes about three years to cool down enough to be converted into solids.

The test range is constantly monitored for contamination. The U.S. Geological Survey checks 26 shallow wells in the area. Almost no radioactivity has been detected outside the test areas, AEC spokesmen say.

What's ahead?

Wehmann says current above-ground storage will last well into the next century but Bills says "there are no plans at this time to have a permanent facility in Idaho."

There were plans to make the permanent storage site an abandoned salt mine in Kansas but it brought howls of protest and the plan was dropped.

Some have proposed collecting the waste material, especially the plutonium, and shooting it into space. But that method would cost too much. The current price tag is about $300,000 a year.

AEC Chairman Dixy Lee Ray told the state earlier this month that Idaho was not being considered for a permanent disposal site for any long-lived nuclear waste. She didn't specify what areas are under consideration but said the AEC hopes to start moving the high-level radioactive waste from Idaho by the end of this decade.

Miss Ray said the site may continue to be used for "safe surface or near surface retrievable storage of certain types of waste."

Find No Ill Effects From Heat Loss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State corrections officials said none of the 30 patients in the central medical facility at the Ohio Penitentiary suffered ill effects when the hospital was without heat for nearly two days this week.

"They were fed well. They had extra blankets. There were no problems," said a spokesman in the superintendent's office.

Officials said a burned out element in a transformer knocked out the hospital's lights and steam heating system at about 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Some of the lights were restored by Tuesday night with emergency generators, but the heating system remained out of order until Thursday morning. Heat was not fully restored until that afternoon because of the time required to fire the boilers, officials said.

The old stone prison retained some heat at first. "But it was getting pretty chilly over there by Wednesday afternoon," said Joseph Ashley, an aide in the corrections department's communications section.

Ashley said attendants brought in extra blankets and an ample supply of hot coffee in an effort to keep the patients warm.

He said the facility's superintendent, Stirling Patterson, reported that none of the patients was in serious condition at the time, and if any had been they would have been transferred to local hospitals.

One man reportedly was moved to Riverside Hospital, but Ashley said he understood the transfer had been arranged beforehand.

Ashley said the outage created no problems with regard to treatments or surgery. He said no surgery was performed, but added that some cases of patients electing for surgery may have been postponed.

The hospital is used both for resident patients and as a clinic facility for the state's other correctional institutions.

The century old prison had its own power plant and a reserve generator until the bulk of the inmates were transferred recently to the new maximum security Lucasville penitentiary.

At that time, the hospital was tied into the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. system.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

Skies cleared across Ohio during the night, letting temperatures drop into the low to mid 30s — about normal for this time of year.

The cold air mass that brought this week's snow flurries has moved on to the east and is being replaced by an increased flow of air from the south. Warmer temperatures were expected for the state this afternoon, with highs in the upper 40s to the upper 50s.

But another cold air mass is spilling into the northern plains and will mean slightly cooler temperatures again tonight and Saturday.

The air is very dry and no precipitation is expected. There will be a little cloudiness as the air passes over Lake Erie.

Tonight's temperatures will range from the upper 20s to the low 30s with highs Saturday in the 40s.

3 Children Injured In Car-Train Crash

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Three children, injured slightly Thursday when an Amtrak train struck their mother's stalled car, were all home today.

They were Patrick Becker, 3, Rebecca, 20-months and Duane Becker 11-months.

Mrs. Nancy Becker, 28, Hamilton, told police she had time only to remove her daughter Etta Marie, 4, from the front seat before the collision.

The other children were in the rear seat when the car was dragged 287 feet by the train. Police learned the train was traveling at a slow 12 m.p.h. at the time of the collision.

The most massive living thing on earth is a tree in California called the General Sherman. It stands 272 feet high and weighs about 1,310 tons.

Find Discrimination In Buildings

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ninety-seven apartment buildings in the nine-county Cincinnati metropolitan area were tested for racial practices and 23 discriminate, according to an anti-segregation group.

Housing Opportunities Made Equal —HOME—released its report Thursday. The tests were made by teams of blacks and whites checking the availability of apartments.

The report said that 80 per cent of the discrimination reported involved owners or managers lying about the availability of rental units.

The biggest problem concerns storing plutonium. Its emissions can be easily stopped but the material disintegrates slowly—it takes 24,000 years to lose half its radioactivity and a quarter-million years to become harmless.

"We figure some of this material has to be kept under surveillance for 250,000 years minimum," says Bills.

Above and below ground there is a total of over 3 million cubic feet of nuclear waste stored in Idaho in over 250,000 steel drums and other containers.

But there's plenty of room at the 88-acre above-ground site for more barrels, says Dr. George Wehmann, a waste management official.

It will take at least four years to fill the current storage pad, which sits atop a thick asphalt layer.

Seven more pads could be built in the same area and there probably are other places to store waste at the test facility which covers 572,000 acres, an area three-fourths the size of Rhode Island.

Besides getting contaminated material from its own test reactors, shipments arrive from the AEC's Rocky Flats, Colo., facility. Wehmann says about 1,000 barrels of Uranium 235 will be shipped from Pittsburgh, Pa., over the next two years and the AEC is likely to approve shipment of nuclear wastes from a similar facility in Ohio.

The testing station has waste treatment and reclaiming facilities. About 99.5 per cent of the enriched uranium in "used" fuel rods that power nuclear reactors is recovered.

And by converting radioactive liquids to solids, about 90 per cent of them are eliminated.

Bills said much of the low level radioactive waste material is stored in underground 300,000-gallon tanks.

"We figure our tank life at 100 to 150 years," Bills said. "We've been operating them for 21 years here so far without a trace of trouble."

Most of the material handled through the facility is expected to lose its radioactivity in 10 to 15 years, so matter stored in some of the tanks probably is inert now, officials say.

Some liquid waste arrives at the site boiling from the radioactive material it contains. It takes about three years to cool down enough to be converted into solids.

The test range is constantly monitored for contamination. The U.S. Geological Survey checks 26 shallow wells in the area. Almost no radioactivity has been detected outside the test areas, AEC spokesmen say.

What's ahead?

Wehmann says current above-ground storage will last well into the next century but Bills says "there are no plans at this time to have a permanent facility in Idaho."

There were plans to make the permanent storage site an abandoned salt mine in Kansas but it brought howls of protest and the plan was dropped.

Some have proposed collecting the waste material, especially the plutonium, and shooting it into space. But that method would cost too much. The current price tag is about $300,000 a year.

AEC Chairman Dixy Lee Ray told the state earlier this month that Idaho was not being considered for a permanent disposal site for any long-lived nuclear waste. She didn't specify what areas are under consideration but said the AEC hopes to start moving the high-level radioactive waste from Idaho by the end of this decade.

Miss Ray said the site may continue to be used for "safe surface or near surface retrievable storage of certain types of waste."

Find No Ill Effects From Heat Loss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State corrections officials said none of the 30 patients in the central medical facility at the Ohio Penitentiary suffered ill effects when the hospital was without heat for nearly two days this week.

"They were fed well. They had extra blankets. There were no problems," said a spokesman in the superintendent's office.

Officials said a burned out element in a transformer knocked out the hospital's lights and steam heating system at about 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Some of the lights were restored by Tuesday night with emergency generators, but the heating system remained out of order until Thursday morning. Heat was not fully restored until that afternoon because of the time required to fire the boilers, officials said.

The old stone prison retained some heat at first. "But it was getting pretty chilly over there by Wednesday afternoon," said Joseph Ashley, an aide in the corrections department's communications section.

Ashley said attendants brought in extra blankets and an ample supply of hot coffee in an effort to keep the patients warm.

He said the facility's superintendent, Stirling Patterson, reported that none of the patients was in serious condition at the time, and if any had been they would have been transferred to local hospitals.

One man reportedly was moved to Riverside Hospital, but Ashley said he understood the transfer had been arranged beforehand.

Ashley said the outage created no problems with regard to treatments or surgery. He said no surgery was performed, but added that some cases of patients electing for surgery may have been postponed.

The hospital is used both for resident patients and as a clinic facility for the state's other correctional institutions.

The century old prison had its own power plant and a reserve generator until the bulk of the inmates were transferred recently to the new maximum security Lucasville penitentiary.

At that time, the hospital was tied into the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. system.

Skies cleared across Ohio during the night, letting temperatures drop into the low to mid 30s — about normal for this time of year.

The cold air mass that brought this week's snow flurries has moved on to the east and is being replaced by an increased flow of air from the south. Warmer temperatures were expected for the state this afternoon, with highs in the upper 40s to the upper 50s.

But another cold air mass is spilling into the northern plains and will mean slightly cooler temperatures again tonight and Saturday.

The air is very dry and no precipitation is expected. There will be a little cloudiness as the air passes over Lake Erie.

Tonight's temperatures will range from the upper 20s to the low 30s with highs Saturday in the 40s.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ninety-seven apartment buildings in the nine-county Cincinnati metropolitan area were tested for racial practices and 23 discriminate, according to an anti-segregation group.

Sen. Aronoff Hits Computer Operations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Cincinnati legislator has proposed ground rules for Ohioans to do battle with the injustices of computer information services.

State Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8, Cincinnati, said he will offer a measure in the 1974 session of the General Assembly to give individuals new rights.

Aronoff said his bill would allow an individual to find out what information the computer service possesses and what use is made of the information. He said his proposal would also allow a citizen "to contest the accuracy, completeness, pertinence and timeliness of data concerning him."

The bill also imposes strict responsibilities on the operators of automated personal information systems to protect individual privacy.

Aronoff said failure to follow privacy safeguards could lead to a fine, civil penalties and even imprisonment.

"The purpose of this bill is not to eliminate the computer or the services it provides," he said. "Rather it is to balance the need to know with the right of privacy."

"Computer technology and the need for information has developed so fast that the individual citizen is virtually powerless to protect himself from a variety of privacy invasions, sometimes intended and sometimes not."

"The results range from simple annoyances, such as junk mail, to tragic consequences, such as distribution of incorrect criminal records."

Kay Wants Wide Probe

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A Cleveland attorney running for the U.S. Senate says he wants the state to investigate past campaign finances of another Senate hopeful as well as the incumbent, Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio.

Richard Kay, a member of the American Independent party, said he asked Ohio Atty. Gen. William J. Brown and Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John Corrigan to probe his charges.

Kay claimed Democratic Senate candidate Howard Metzenbaum distributed several hundred thousand dollars to his family, who then kicked the money into Metzenbaum's unsuccessful Senate run in 1970.

He also questioned what he said was a $7,000 loan obtained by Saxbe from a Columbus bank during Saxbe's 1968 Senate campaign. Kay said the loan might violate prohibitions against corporate political contributions.

Metzenbaum dismissed Kay's charge as a publicity gimmick. He said Kay also raised the issue in 1970 but that it was dismissed by the courts.

Ohio High Court Reviews Cases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's Supreme Court has agreed to review a landmark case which is expected to more clearly define the powers of the Ohio Civil Rights Commission.

It accepted Wednesday the commission's appeal from lower court decisions that threw out a discrimination conviction against a Portage County trailer park operator.

Linda Beeler, a white Kent State University co-ed, went before the commission after being ordered to remove her trailer from the Kent Trailer Park in December 1969.

She was told to move by the owner, Ostep (Rex) Lysyj (correct), after her trailer was visited by a black youth, she said.

After a public hearing, the commission found in Miss Beeler's favor and ordered Lysyj to pay her a total of $1,650 in damages.

However, Portage County Common Pleas Court reversed the commission. It agreed with the owner's counsel that trailer parks are not covered by state law prohibiting discrimination in places of public accommodation.

Counsel for the commission said the Supreme Court now will say what the definition includes. Its decision also is expected to determine for the first time if discrimination can exist on the basis of association.

Damages awarded by the commission are not directly at issue in the Supreme Court, since the appeals court did not rule on that question when it upheld the common pleas court.

This is the first appeal from a commission action which has gone all the way to the Supreme Court, attorneys said.

In another case, the Supreme Court dismissed the appeal of Edward Abdulla of Akron, indicted early this year on charges involving a multi-million dollar securities fraud.

Abdulla sought to show in lower courts that the law he was accused of violating was unconstitutional in that it gives powers to the State Securities Division that are "arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable."

He was named in eight counts of an indictment that charged him, and others in the case, with violating a statute requiring a license to sell securities. Records showed about $11 million in loans was obtained in a "pyramid" securities scheme attributed to D. Don Lowers.

Kinder Key To Begin Caroling

Kinder Key, a 100 member women's auxiliary group of Children's Hospital, will begin its 20th Annual Christmas Caroling Drive Dec. 12 and 13.

The Kinder Key Caroling Groups are composed of children from schools, church groups, service groups and any other groups which would like to participate in the caroling drive. More than 20,000 men, women and children helped raise $30,194.44 during the 1972 drive.

100 per cent of the proceeds is donated to the Heart Laboratory at Children's Hospital. Kinder Key is not a part of the Central Ohio Heart Association whose funds are used for research and education.

Kinder key is approved by the Columbus Academy of Medicine.

Caroling groups will be participating in Columbus and surrounding areas. Any persons or group organizations wishing to participate should contact Paul Dunkle or call 221-7811.

In other action, the Supreme Court: —Agreed to hear the appeal of Donald Burson of Canton, convicted in the robbery and fatal beating in Canton July 21, 1972, of Mrs. Clara Griffith, 70, of Canton. He claims improper evidence was admitted at his trial.

Let stand a lower court order requiring Dorothy Cain, clerk treasurer of the West Geauga Local School District, to deduct income taxes from the wages of non-resident school employees. The order was sought by John R. Urban, administrator of a regional income tax agency set up to serve 41 communities whose area exceeds that of the school district.

—Agreed to hear the appeal of John Kuklevich, injured in a fall of collapsing bleachers at a football game in the Union Local School District, Belmont County, Nov. 6, 1970. He sued for damages in lower courts which held his case invalid because of the sovereign immunity of the state and its subdivisions.

On Books And Activities At The Library

Do you feel like a literary "wallflower" when the conversation turns to a new novel or a best seller non-fiction book? You can change that by stopping in the library and asking for one of the new titles which have just come in.

If you like historical fiction, Jean Plaidy's newest title is "Evergreen Gallant." This is the story of Henry of Navarre, recognized as the greatest king the French have ever known. It is also the story of his wives, his mistresses, and his reign as king.

In Janet Aiken Hodges' "Shadow of a Lady," two intertwining love stories have their setting in London, Toulon, and Naples in the wake of the French Revolution.

The sea provides a backdrop for the cloak and dagger historical novel, "H. M. S. Surprise" by Patrick O'Brian.

Set in a small Argentinian town during the 40's, "Heartbreak Tango" by Manuel Puig is a love story which centers on four women who are in love with the same man. Unfortunately, he is destined to die of tuberculosis.

Ernest K. Gann, author of "The High and the Mighty" has written another book about men who face the dangers of flying. This is a novel about a mysterious commercial plane crash in Taiwan and the efforts of fellow pilots to clear the captain of a negligence charge.

"Tourist" by Gerald Green is a suspense novel about a plane load of tourists. Enroute to a packaged Grand European tour, they come to know one another all too well.

"Stand On It" by Ace Stoker is a book about one American dream: auto-racing—and its attendant endless travel, identical motel rooms, parties and hangers-on.

"Desperate Games" by Pierre Boulle is a novel about a group of scientists who establish a world government, only to discover that new problems outweigh the old.

"Virgin of Lontano" by Helen Tucker is the story of a Sardinian girl who is chosen to play the part of the Holy Virgin in the Good Friday procession. Scandal arises when it is discovered she is pregnant.

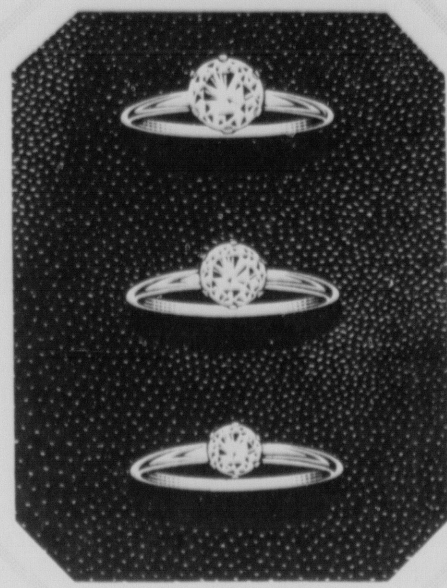

"Clickwhistle" by William John Watkins is a science fiction tale in which 50 cooperating dolphins destroy a super-sub.

For mystery fans, there are several new titles. Tuppence and Tommy Beresford, Agatha Christie's engaging detective duo, return in a skillfully woven story of mystery and horror. In "Postern of Fate," Agatha's 88th novel, nothing is quite what it seems to be.

"Inspector West at Home" by John Creasey is an early Roger West story about the Chief Inspector's career being threatened by a frame-up. "Wicked Way To Die" by J. G. Jeffreys is a mystery about a murder that looks like suicide. Set in colorful London in the year 1800. "Plot Against Roger Rider" by Julian Symons is an internationally set mystery. The head of British Medical Subsidiaries hires a private detective to check up on his beautiful young wife.

Peace between the east and west, ultimately survival, will be decided as two ace pilots, totally obsessed with flying, confront each other in a final test in Thomas Patrick McMahon's "Mayday."

"Return to Earth" is the story of Buss Aldrin, his moonwalk, and the mental breakdown and marital problems which came later.

"Music Is My Mistress" are the recollections of Duke Ellington, the celebrities he has known, and his music. "Promises of Power" is the autobiography of Carl B. Stokes, the first black mayor of a large American city—Cleveland, Ohio.

In "Economics and the Public Purpose", John Kenneth Galbraith presents a full development of his theories of the effect of giant corporations upon American politics and economics.

To end with a light touch, Peg Bracken tells about the joys and pitfalls of the inexperienced traveler in "But I Wouldn't Have Missed It For the World."

The '73-'74 Tiger wrestling team had been practicing for its opener Dec. 8 at home against Hillsboro.

Coach Brent Bell said that he had a good turnout of over 30 grapplers at practices the past four weeks. He said he expects a good, solid club to come out of these men this year.

According to the coach, most of the strength has been shown in the lower weight classes. But some outstanding individual efforts in the middle and higher weight classes have developed good depth.

Experience shouldn't hurt the Tigers. Even though some good talent was lost through graduation, Coach

Student Council Organized By 7 SCOL Schools

By CINDY SIMS

The schools in the South Central Ohio League have organized a student council for the league. New officers were chosen at the Nov. 13 meeting at Circleville High School.

Schools represented by the league council are Greenfield, Hillsboro, Madison Plains, Miami Trace, Washington C. H., Wilmington and Circleville.

Officers elected by representatives from the participating schools were John Hastings, president, Hillsboro; Charlie Eselgrath, vice-president, Greenfield; and Leslie Ried, secretary, Circleville.

Lunches for the day's visitors were paid for by the student council program at CHS.

When meetings are held at the other schools Circleville will be represented by Matt McGowan, John McCoy, Sherri Smith, Vicki Marshall, Cheryl Brian and Leslie Ried.

Bell has the nucleus of a good team. He said that senior captain Steve Watters, senior John Payne, senior Joe Smith, junior Ben McDaniel, senior John McCoy, and senior Tim Wilkinson have all been tested through competition and must provide leadership for the rest of the team.

Coach Bell expects a lot from some fine sophomore talent, which has done well in the junior high school wrestling program. These sophomores include Jim Cordle, Tom England, Dave DeFrank, Andy Smith, John Payne, and Jeff Lackey.

For the second year in a row, Circleville has been able to find some rough reserve competition, which is important to the building program at Circleville. Many of the sophomores and juniors will spend their time in the reserve wrestling system to gain added experience for the future.

"Catfish," as Wes's friends call him, resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verland H. Riley, and his four brothers, Mick, Chris, Lawrence, and Parker, at 1014 S. Court St.

When asked how DECA helps him prepare for his future vocation, Wes replied, "It shows me different sales techniques, and it has helped me to work and get along with other people."

Some of Wes's likes include fishing, playing football and working. His dislikes are people with bad influences on others and "munchkins."

After graduation Wes plans to join the army.

CHS Grapplers Open Season In December

By RICK BUMGARNER

The '73-'74 Tiger wrestling team had been practicing for its opener Dec. 8 at home against Hillsboro.

Coach Brent Bell said that he had a good turnout of over 30 grapplers at practices the past four weeks. He said he expects a good, solid club to come out of these men this year.

According to the coach, most of the strength has been shown in the lower weight classes. But some outstanding individual efforts in the middle and higher weight classes have developed good depth.

Experience shouldn't hurt the Tigers. Even though some good talent was lost through graduation, Coach

Bell has the nucleus of a good team. He said that senior captain Steve Watters, senior John Payne, senior Joe Smith, junior Ben McDaniel, senior John McCoy, and senior Tim Wilkinson have all been tested through competition and must provide leadership for the rest of the team.

Coach Bell expects a lot from some fine sophomore talent, which has done well in the junior high school wrestling program. These sophomores include Jim Cordle, Tom England, Dave DeFrank, Andy Smith, John Payne, and Jeff Lackey.

For the second year in a row, Circleville has been able to find some rough reserve competition, which is important to the building program at Circleville. Many of the sophomores and juniors will spend their time in the reserve wrestling system to gain added experience for the future.

Counselor Explains Some Confusing College Terms

By ROBIN MARTIN

Are you puzzled by terms relating to post high school education, such as "liberal arts college" or "bachelor's degree"? According to Mrs. Doris Gillespie, CHS guidance counselor, phrases such as these raise many questions in students' minds.

The various degrees given in college may be confusing. A bachelor's degree is given for finishing a college program of at least four but not more than five years of academic work. Upon completion of a two — or three-year program of college work, an associate degree is given.

Advanced degrees, which are ones given beyond the associate or bachelor's, include first professional, master's and doctor's degrees. The degree given for finishing one year of academic work beyond the bachelor's degree is the master's.

A doctor's degree is the highest one in a field of study or profession. The degree that shows all academic requirements have been completed for practicing a profession is called the first professional degree.

Two common types of colleges are the liberal arts and the community college. The liberal arts college is one in which the emphasis is on a program of liberal arts and basic sciences, usually leading to a bachelor's degree. A community college is a two-year college offering courses that fit the needs of the local community, such as occupational, adult and general education.

Graduate and undergraduate schools are separate parts of a university. The graduate school offers programs for advanced degrees. The undergraduate school offers programs that lead to the bachelor's degree. Only institutions offering degrees beyond a bachelor's can be called universities.

Circleville, Teays Valley and Logan Elm all have wrestling teams and are just about ready to begin the season. We have had some top flight boys in the area who have gained recognition on the state level and from the looks of things there are more of the same on tap.

All the schools will be holding home meets during the season so show up some day and watch the finesse and spirit of these young men.—It's well worth the time.

The nation's energy crisis doesn't stop at your neighborhood gas station or your living room thermostat.

It's likely to reach beyond right into your recreation time and your occupation with the world of sports.

For example, with gasoline in short supply, you might choose to use your quota for more important trips than a ride out to the ball park to watch the local team play.

That possibility hasn't been lost on sports administrators and the subject is being studied on several fronts. It is due for at least a cursory examination at the baseball meetings in Houston next week.

Battaglia said the track will work in areas other than track lighting to comply with President Nixon's call to cut energy use.

tificial lights.

The California Angels announced this week that they would reduce the number of games played under the lights in Anaheim by 12.3 per cent next season.

"If they tell us we can't play night ball because of the electrical power drain, we can't exist," said Calvin Griffith, president of the Minnesota Twins. "From a business standpoint, we simply cannot play during the day. We couldn't even pay our hospital insurance with what we'd draw with all-day baseball."

There is also the matter of air travel and the cutbacks of flights because of the fuel shortage. Baseball is considering returning to train transportation for short trips. Trains provided the main source of transportation for clubs before expansion to the West Coast in 1958. Planes, of course, would still be used for cross-country travel.

Football isn't as directly concerned because there is less frequent travel and most games are played during the day.

The golf circuit depends heavily on air travel for players to get from tournament to tournament. Many expressed concern over the problem.

Basketball and hockey teams also do a majority of their travel on charter air planes and the cutbacks have those sports worried too.

Forecaster Likes Broncos, Bengals

NEW YORK (AP) — Can the Dallas Cowboys tame the Denver Broncos? That's one of the biggest questions this weekend in the National Football League.

The upstart Broncos are in first place in the American Conference West. Yes, first place with only three games left on the regular-season schedule.

And the Cowboys are in second place in the National Conference East, one game behind the Washington Redskins.

Dallas (7-4) at Denver (6-3-2) — On paper, the Cowboys are a much better team than the Broncos — both offensively and defensively. Probably even better than the three-point edge that the oddsmakers give Dallas. We don't think enough emphasis has been given to Denver's desire, which should make the Broncos this weekend's darlings of destiny. So ... BRONCOS 24, COWBOYS 22.

Minnesota (10-1) at Cincinnati (7-4)

A must game for Cincinnati, which could move into a first-place tie in the AFC Central if both Pittsburgh and Cleveland lose. The Vikings, favored by seven, have nothing to gain either way. Let's go with desire once more. BENGALS 28, VIKINGS 24.

Pittsburgh (8-3) at Miami (10-1) — The Steelers may have desire, but their No. 1 and No. 2 quarterbacks are out of action against the defending Super Bowl champions for the Monday night Mouth Bowl. Dolphins are only favored by 8½. Could be one of those candy-from-a-baby steals. DOLPHINS 28, STEELERS 14.

Cleveland (7-3-1) at Kansas City (6-4-1) — Another must game — for both teams. The Chiefs are favored by three and Jan Stenerud's toe might just provide them with the winning three points. CHIEFS 23, BROWNS 20.

Baltimore (2-9) at New York Jets (3-8) — The Colts' secondary seems to bring out the best in opposing quarterbacks this season. And that may be exactly what the doctor ordered for Joe Namath. JETS 34, COLTS 17.

Oakland (6-4-1) at Houston (11-0) — Ho hum, next game. RAIDERS 44, OILERS 14.

San Diego (2-8-1) at New England (4-7) — The Patriots have a chance to equal their 1971 record, 6-8, by winning two of their final three games and with the Chargers, plus the Baltimore Colts as two of their three final foes, they should do it. PATRIOTS 28, CHARGERS 17.

Detroit (4-6-1) at St. Louis (37-1) — This could be the only good chance St. Louis has to win another game this season, but the Lions, except for a game against the Dolphins, have two chances — this game and an upcoming one with the Chicago Bears. The Lions are slight favorites and should pull this one out. LIONS 21, CARDINALS 17.

Los Angeles (9-2) at Chicago (3-8) — The Rams have to keep winning if they are to keep the Atlanta Falcons from catching them in the NFC West. The schedule favors the Falcons, too, so the Rams can't relax any. This would be a nice spot for one of those upsets the Bears pull off every once in awhile. But it shouldn't happen this time. RAMS 31, BEARS 14.

New Orleans (4-7) at Green Bay (3-6-2) — The Packers are favored by seven here. It's about time that they came through with a victory, but let's look for another upset and say ... SAINTS 28, PACKERS 18.

New York Giants (2-8-1) at Washington (8-3) — What ever happened to Duane Thomas? Is Washington Coach George Allen keeping him in reserve for a big game? If that's the case, he won't see much action this time. Or maybe, Allen will spring him loose and let Larry Brown's aching ribs heal. Anyway ... RED-SKINS 41, GIANTS 14.

Philadelphia (4-6-1) at San Francisco (4-7) — The 49ers are favored by seven and are at home. But the Eagles are starting to gain some respectability and will be hungrier. So, in another upset ... EAGLES 24, 49ERS 21.

Buffalo (6-5) at Atlanta (8-3) — After this one, the Falcons play the Saints and the Cardinals. That's why the Rams can't relax any. O.J. may get his 100-plus yards, but Atlanta is favored by two touchdowns. FALCONS 28, BILLS 10.

Tide To Face Auburn

By JOHN NELSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant admits he's coming into Saturday's meeting with Auburn "kind of blindfolded" by the Tigers' new Veer offense.

But he's been working this week to shed the blindfolds so that Alabama, 10-0, will not have to face the untidy prospect of meeting Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl Dec. 31 with a sullied record.

"This is the most important game of the year for a lot of reasons for us," the Crimson Tide coach says. "We've got to concentrate on winning the state championship and get our minds off of anything else."

While No. 1 Alabama meets Auburn on national television, Ara Parseghian's fifth-ranked Irish face the University of Miami, Fla., Hurricanes at night. Ironically, both Notre Dame, 9-0, and Alabama are four-touchdown favorites.

The oddsmakers have made Alabama, which beat Miami 43-13 earlier this season, a one-touchdown pick over the Irish in the Sugar Bowl.

Also on national television Saturday will be the traditional Army-Navy game at Philadelphia.

Other day games Saturday — the final day of regular season action in college football — include No. 2 Oklahoma at Oklahoma State, Vanderbilt at No. 19 Tennessee, Florida State at Florida, Georgia Tech at Georgia, Boston College at Holy Cross, Baylor at Rice and Texas Christian at Southern Methodist.

Saturday night contests include No. 8 Louisiana State at Tulane, Tulsa at No. 14 Houston, Iowa State at San Diego, Utah at Hawaii and Brigham Young at Texas-El Paso.

In the NAIA Division II championships, Glenville, W. Va., faces Northwestern, Iowa, at Huntington, W. Va.

Elon meets LaCrosse at Burlington, N.C., and Langston meets Abilene Christian in the NAIA Division I semifinals.

In the NCAA Division III semifinals, San Diego University is at Wittenberg, and Juniata plays Bridgeport.

In the NCAA Division II quarter-finals, Grambling meets Delaware in the Boardwalk Bowl at Atlantic City, N.J.; Lehigh meets Western Kentucky at Bowling Green; Western Illinois plays Louisiana Tech at Ruston, and South Dakota travels to Boise State.

The only other action Saturday sees Milliken playing Bethany in the Boot Hill Bowl at Dodge City, Kan.

LSU and Tulane both will try Saturday night to rebound from losses. LSU was defeated by Alabama for the Southeast Conference championship last week 21-7, and Tulane was embarrassed by Maryland 42-9.

Navy is a 17-point favorite to defeat the Army cadets, who have not won in nine games.

George Walsh, in his first year as coach at the Naval Academy, says he'd "rather win this one than any other. It's a game we can point to, a game we can get a little more excited about."

But Walsh doesn't believe the 17-point spread. "I wouldn't bet on Navy at 17," he said.

Little Vikings Win

Teays Valley's junior high cage squads both came up with wins at Dublin Thursday to run their records to 2-0 for the season.

The seventh grade Vikings copped a 28-22 decision and the eighth graders won 29-27.

Jeff Welsh paced the seventh grade Vikings with 14 points and Rick Queen was high man for the eighth graders with 13 points.

Both Viking teams will be at home 5:45 p.m. Thursday with Reynoldsburg.

Ohio Shrine Bowl To Be Showcase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Pro scouts will flock to Ohio Stadium Saturday to spy on the state's outstanding college football talent playing in the second Ohio Shrine Bowl.

"The pros are interested in a lot of these kids," said Fred Martinelli of Ashland College, the coach of the West squad.

The West will try to square the brief series at one game apiece. The East, guided this year by By Morgan of Findlay College, won the 1972 opener 20-7.

Every Ohio college is represented except Ohio State, Miami and Wittenberg, involved in post-season appearances.

The game could boil down to a duel between the West's running and a wide-open, passing attack from the East.

"If we can run, we can win," Martinelli said. His chief weapons are Bowling Green's 210-pound fullback Phil Polak, an All-Mid-American Conference choice, and Bob Hunt, a power runner from Heidelberg.

The East has outstanding pass receivers in Olympic gold medalist Gerald Tinker, All-Mac from Kent State, and Mac Thomas of Akron, another sub-10 second sprinter.

Morgan said he would alternate Eric Schock of Akron and Larry Griffith of Mount Union at quarterback. Tim Dydo of Xavier and Jim Ruth of Heidelberg will split the West quarterbacking.

Proceeds from the game, televised on a statewide network, go to the Cincinnati Burns Institute.

The all-star rosters:

Mike Knepp, Hiram; Jack Lambert, Gerald Tinker, Gary Pintel, Kent State; Jeff Madden, Eric Schock, Mac Thomas, Akron; Doug Miller, Findlay; Farris Scott, Youngstown; Chuck Simonetti, Muskingum; Alex Young, Kenyon, and Al Zdesar, John Carroll.

West—Mike Adams, Craig Snider, Capital; Kevin Baldwin, Jim Ellison,

Jerry Franklin, Dayton; Scott Bodie, Ohio Northern; Jim Ruth, Bob Hunt, Tom Coffman, Heidelberg; Dave Dlugosz, Wilmington; Bob Douglas, Central State; Tom Dydo, John Phillips, Rudy McClintock, Bob Pickard, Xavier; Tom Schaffner, Mike England, Defiance; Randy Fierbaugh, Steve Stoler, Jim Yoequet, Ashland.

Tom Hall, John Jacquet, Phil Polak, Bowling Green; Mel Minfield, Doug Neundorff, George Keim, Dave Williams, Toledo; Duane Petty, Ohio Wesleyan; Hal Krotzer, Bluffton.

The Lions are slight favorites and should pull this one out. LIONS 21, CARDINALS 17.

Los Angeles (9-2) at Chicago (3-8) — The Rams have to keep winning if they are to keep the Atlanta Falcons from catching them in the NFC West. The schedule favors the Falcons, too, so the Rams can't relax any. This would be a nice spot for one of those upsets the Bears pull off every once in awhile. But it shouldn't happen this time. RAMS 31, BEARS 14.

New Orleans (4-7) at Green Bay (3-6-2) — The Packers are favored by seven here. It's about time that they came through with a victory, but let's look for another upset and say ... SAINTS 28, PACKERS 18.

New York Giants (2-8-1) at Washington (8-3) — What ever happened to Duane Thomas? Is Washington Coach George Allen keeping him in reserve for a big game? If that's the case, he won't see much action this time. Or maybe, Allen will spring him loose and let Larry Brown's aching ribs heal. Anyway ... REDSKINS 41, GIANTS 14.

Philadelphia (4-6-1) at San Francisco (4-7) — The 49ers are favored by seven and are at home. But the Eagles are starting to gain some respectability and will be hungrier. So, in another upset ... EAGLES 24, 49ERS 21.

Buffalo (6-5) at Atlanta (8-3) — After this one, the Falcons play the Saints and the Cardinals. That's why the Rams can't relax any. O.J. may get his 100-plus yards, but Atlanta is favored by two touchdowns. FALCONS 28, BILLS 10.

Tide To Face Auburn

By JOHN NELSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant admits he's coming into Saturday's meeting with Auburn "kind of blindfolded" by the Tigers' new Veer offense.

But he's been working this week to shed the blindfolds so that Alabama, 10-0, will not have to face the untidy prospect of meeting Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl Dec. 31 with a sullied record.

"This is the most important game of the year for a lot of reasons for us," the Crimson Tide coach says. "We've got to concentrate on winning the state championship and get our minds off of anything else."

While No. 1 Alabama meets Auburn on national television, Ara Parseghian's fifth-ranked Irish face the University of Miami, Fla., Hurricanes at night. Ironically, both Notre Dame,

Ohio Shrine Bowl To Be Showcase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Pro scouts will flock to Ohio Stadium Saturday to spy on the state's outstanding college football talent playing in the second Ohio Shrine Bowl.

"The pros are interested in a lot of these kids," said Fred Martinelli of Ashland College, the coach of the West squad.

The West will try to square the brief series at one game apiece. The East, guided this year by By Morgan of Findlay College, won the 1972 opener 20-7.

Every Ohio college is represented except Ohio State, Miami and Wittenberg, involved in post-season appearances.

The game could boil down to a duel between the West's running and a wide-open, passing attack from the East.

"If we can run, we can win," Martinelli said. His chief weapons are Bowling Green's 210-pound fullback Phil Polak, an All-Mid-American Conference choice, and Bob Hunt, a power runner from Heidelberg.

The East has outstanding pass receivers in Olympic gold medalist Gerald Tinker, All-Mac from Kent State, and Mac Thomas of Akron, another sub-10 second sprinter.

Morgan said he would alternate Eric Schock of Akron and Larry Griffith of Mount Union at quarterback. Tim Dydo of Xavier and Jim Ruth of Heidelberg will split the West quarterbacking.

Proceeds from the game, televised on a statewide network, go to the Cincinnati Burns Institute.

The all-star rosters:

Mike Knepp, Hiram; Jack Lambert, Gerald Tinker, Gary Pinkel, Kent State; Jeff Madden, Eric Schock, Mac Thomas, Akron; Doug Miller, Findlay; Farris Scott, Youngstown; Chuck Simonetti, Muskingum; Alex Young, Kenyon, and Al Zdesar, John Carroll.

West — Mike Adams, Craig Snider, Capital; Kevin Baldwin, Jim Ellison,

Jerry Franklin, Dayton; Scott Bodie, Ohio Northern; Jim Ruth, Bob Hunt, Tom Coffman, Heidelberg; Dave Dlugosz, Wilmington; Bob Douglas, Central State; Tom Dydo, John Phillips, Rudy McClintock, Bob Pickard, Xavier; Tom Schaffner, Mike England, Defiance; Randy Fierbaugh, Steve Stoler, Jim Yockey, Ashland.

Tom Hall, John Jacquot, Phil Polak, Bowling Green; Mel Minnfield, Doug Neundorff, George Keim, Dave Williams, Toledo; Duane Petty, Ohio Wesleyan; Hal Krotzer, Bluffton.

A-C Boosters Hold Sports Banquet

The junior high, reserve and varsity football teams, girl's volleyball team and cheerleaders were honored at the Amanda-Clearcreek Athletic Club's Fall Sports banquet at the high school gym.

Rod Brobst received an honorary All-Mid State trophy. The Steve Miller award, given by Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Miller in memory of their son Steve, was presented to Posey.

Volleyball awards went to: Jackie Arledge, most improved; Lori Bitler, best defensive; Sheri Hartley, best offensive; Brenda McNichols, most valuable player.

Special awards were presented to Marie Warner and Evelyn Boyd. Members of the junior high football team were presented with medals for winning the South Division League.

The 1973-74 Booster Club officers are: Donald Davis, president; Myrtle Foster, secretary; Joyce Davis, treasurer. Meetings are held the third Tuesday of each month at the high school.

Motor Will Allow Mexican Fisherman Double Income

By GUY H. LEATHERWOOD
For The Herald
EDITOR'S NOTE: The author of these articles is not a newcomer to the Herald's readers. His travel series have appeared in this newspaper on Alaska and Israel. A retired postal supervisor, farmer and real estate dealer, he lives in Ashville.

If you were Cantorello Flores and his good wife, Consuello, how would you meet your responsibilities in an uneven world?

He is 32 years old, she about 24 or 25. They have six children, the youngest about a month old. He is the fisherman to whom we brought the outboard motor. This will enable him to about double his income from fishing. He can go where the fish are and not be limited to his dug-out boat rowed with oars.

Somedays he can do fairly well, especially in the winter time when fishing and shrimping are good. Also there are oysters to be had if you can get to them. He might average 10 to 15 dollars a week the year around if he doesn't have any hard luck.

The government protects the shrimp in the summer time which is necessary because of their breeding season. However I hear that at times some of the more desperate fisherman resort to bootlegging of shrimp in the summertime. There is a great risk in this because the government takes a dim view of poachers. Then there is the physical problem of transporting them on the bus or otherwise to Tepic, the state capitol. Cantorello could ill afford to have his boat confiscated as this would be disastrous. So the summertime is pretty rough going for these people.

The family are squatters on a very good plot of land owned by a wealthy lady. She has been wanting them to move for some time and Cantorello is in the process of obtaining a lot. He is enthused about the prospect of building his new house. It will probably cost him $150 if he does the work himself. He is even dreaming of a concrete floor. The walls will be laced

Homeowners Cautioned About Insulating

Insulating your home to save on heating fuel is a wise idea, but knowing what you're doing before you insulate could save your life, according to Calvin Danford, manager for Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. in the Circleville area.

Danford noted that heating equipment needs oxygen to burn fuel properly, without creating fumes, and cautioned against sealing furnace room windows and doors with tape or rags or failing to properly vent a furnace.

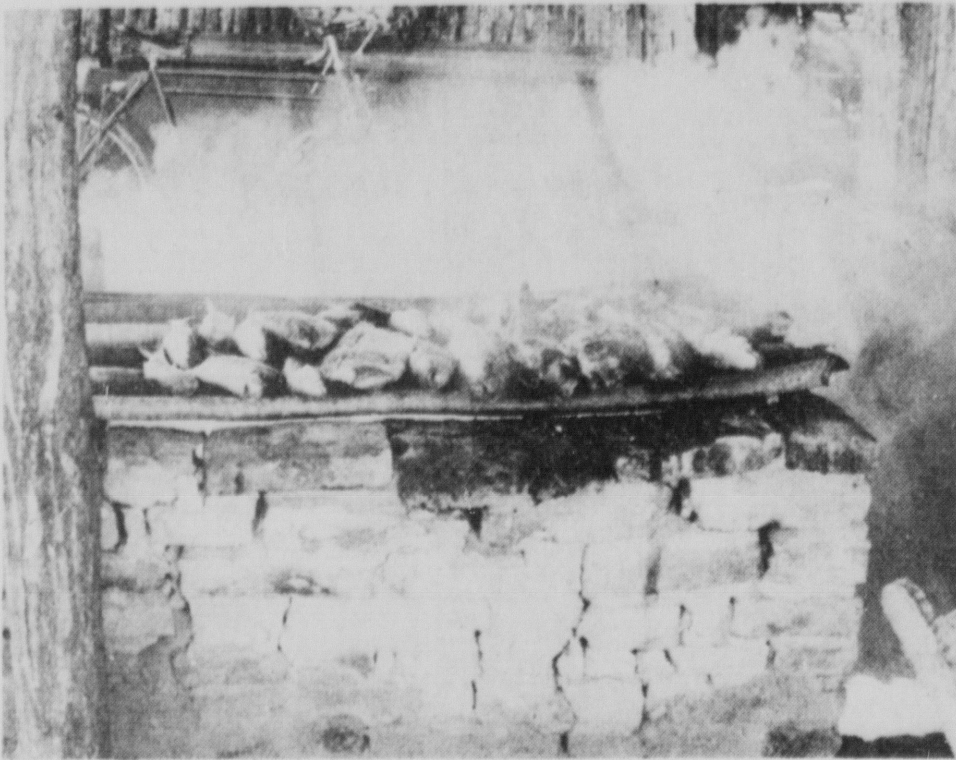

"A home which is too tightly sealed, rather than properly insulated, won't allow fresh air into the furnace for complete combustion of the heating fuel," Danford said. "As a result, lethal carbon monoxide is formed and can spread throughout the entire home."

Danford urged homeowners to contact local insulation dealers for information on how to plan an adequate insulation program.

Seek Modification Of Police Demands

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The city has asked the Fraternal Order of Police to modify wage and fringe demands for 1974 salaries.

Police broke off negotiations when the city offered a wage boost of $810 and no new fringe benefits. Police demanded a $1,000 increase.

SMOKING FISH—One of the more common means of preserving fish in Mexico is by smoking. It is not an uncommon sight to see fish being smoked at restaurants and markets in Mexican villages along the coast.

branches which look a little like bamboo. He has a choice for the roof. He can cut palm branches and make a thatched roof or use a type of manufactured asphalt corrugated roofing. He will probably use the latter if he can swing it. Metal would be fine or even tile but the cost is prohibitive. But like other young couples, they dream of a home of their very own.

His life is hard but she really sees it rough. She does have a cold water spigot, but that is about all the conveniences she does have. She would love to have a sewing machine as she is an excellent seamstress and she could sew so much for her children.

A refrigerator is a vital necessity and a washing machine would probably seem like a little bit of heaven.

She is a very pretty young woman with dark brown eyes and hair. Her hair used to nearly reach her waist but she has cut it to shoulder length. She will probably be old before her time with all these burdens.

But she was the very gracious hostess as her husband assisted her with the meal we shared with them in their humble home with its dirt floor and pole sides. She served us a very tasty meal of smoked fish, rice and a type of unleavened bread similar in shape and size, to pancakes, common throughout Mexico.

So the next time one starts griping about the energy shortage or some other little annoyance he should thank God for his blessings and think of Cantorella and Consuello Flores in San Blas Mexico.

Red Cross Board Discusses Community Fund Deficit

The Board of Directors of Pickaway County Chapter American Red Cross held its monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the Chapter House. C. P. Pfleger, Chapter chairman presided and appointed Robert Scranton, vice-chairman to be the alternate to sign chapter checks.

Due to the fact that Pickaway County Community Fund did not reach the goal for 1974, Red Cross funding will probably be cut by $2500. Dr. Robert Burton, finance chairman, stated that the Budget Committee will meet to consider the problem and make recommendation to the board regarding ways and means of meeting it.

Mrs. Fred Tammany reported that the chapter cars have made 30 trips and transported 66 people to clinics, hospitals and doctors during November. Eight volunteer drivers were involved with providing this service.

Concern for the Blood Program and the need to stimulate greater community participation was expressed by all members of the board. Jo LaFontaine, Chairman of the recruitment committee, announced that a meeting of all interested people will be held at the chapter on Wednesday evening, December 5, to consider a program designed to meet the quota of 150 pints per visit on the 9 dates in 1974. The Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center will celebrate its 15th Anniversary Dec. 7 at the Columbus Area Chapter House with a luncheon at noon. Mr. Fred Laise, vice president, American National Red Cross will be guest speaker. All friends of Red Cross and the Blood Program are invited to attend.

John Stebelton and Lowell Ferguson announced that re-training of First Aid Instructors will get underway early in January with two series of three sessions each to be scheduled to update all former instructors and familiarize them with the new materials.

New Life

One day in January, 1968, Dr. Phillip Blaiberg, a South African dentist, lay dying of heart failure in a Johannesburg hospital. The next day Dr. Christian Barnard and his surgical team performed a heart transplant which gave him new hope and health. For the following twenty months that he lived, Dr. Blaiberg never ceased to be thankful for the new lease on life which the surgeons had given him.

The Great Physician, Jesus Christ, offers you also a new lease on life. The NEW LIFE which he offers is not good for only a few months, but is guaranteed for time and eternity, and it can be yours for the asking. Jesus said, "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Another time he said, "I have come that they may have life and that they may have it more abundantly."

The government protects the shrimp in the summer time which is necessary because of their breeding season. However I hear that at times some of the more desperate fisherman resort to bootlegging of shrimp in the summertime. There is a great risk in this because the government takes a dim view of poachers. Then there is the physical problem of transporting them on the bus or otherwise to Tepic, the state capitol. Cantorello could ill afford to have his boat confiscated as this would be disastrous. So the summertime is pretty rough going for these people.

The family are squatters on a very good plot of land owned by a wealthy lady. She has been wanting them to move for some time and Cantorello is in the process of obtaining a lot. He is enthused about the prospect of building his new house. It will probably cost him $150 if he does the work himself. He is even dreaming of a concrete floor. The walls will be laced

Homeowners Cautioned About Insulating

Insulating your home to save on heating fuel is a wise idea, but knowing what you're doing before you insulate could save your life, according to Calvin Danford, manager for Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. in the Circleville area.

Danford noted that heating equipment needs oxygen to burn fuel properly, without creating fumes, and cautioned against sealing furnace room windows and doors with tape or rags or failing to properly vent a furnace.

"A home which is too tightly sealed, rather than properly insulated, won't allow fresh air into the furnace for complete combustion of the heating fuel," Danford said. "As a result, lethal carbon monoxide is formed and can spread throughout the entire home."

Danford urged homeowners to contact local insulation dealers for information on how to plan an adequate insulation program.

Seek Modification Of Police Demands

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The city has asked the Fraternal Order of Police to modify wage and fringe demands for 1974 salaries.

Police broke off negotiations when the city offered a wage boost of $810 and no new fringe benefits. Police demanded a $1,000 increase.

SMOKING FISH—One of the more common means of preserving fish in Mexico is by smoking. It is not an uncommon sight to see fish being smoked at restaurants and markets in Mexican villages along the coast.

branches which look a little like bamboo. He has a choice for the roof. He can cut palm branches and make a thatched roof or use a type of manufactured asphalt corrugated roofing. He will probably use the latter if he can swing it. Metal would be fine or even tile but the cost is prohibitive. But like other young couples, they dream of a home of their very own.

His life is hard but she really sees it rough. She does have a cold water spigot, but that is about all the conveniences she does have. She would love to have a sewing machine as she is an excellent seamstress and she could sew so much for her children.

A refrigerator is a vital necessity and a washing machine would probably seem like a little bit of heaven.

She is a very pretty young woman with dark brown eyes and hair. Her hair used to nearly reach her waist but she has cut it to shoulder length. She will probably be old before her time with all these burdens.

But she was the very gracious hostess as her husband assisted her with the meal we shared with them in their humble home with its dirt floor and pole sides. She served us a very tasty meal of smoked fish, rice and a type of unleavened bread similar in shape and size, to pancakes, common throughout Mexico.

So the next time one starts griping about the energy shortage or some other little annoyance he should thank God for his blessings and think of Cantorella and Consuello Flores in San Blas Mexico.

Red Cross Board Discusses Community Fund Deficit

The Board of Directors of Pickaway County Chapter American Red Cross held its monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the Chapter House. C. P. Pfeleger, Chapter chairman presided and appointed Robert Scranton, vice-chairman to be the alternate to sign chapter checks.

Due to the fact that Pickaway County Community Fund did not reach the goal for 1974, Red Cross funding will probably be cut by $2500. Dr. Robert Burton, finance chairman, stated that the Budget Committee will meet to consider the problem and make recommendation to the board regarding ways and means of meeting it.

Mrs. Fred Tammany reported that the chapter cars have made 30 trips and transported 66 people to clinics, hospitals and doctors during November. Eight volunteer drivers were involved with providing this service.

Concern for the Blood Program and the need to stimulate greater community participation was expressed by all members of the board. Jo LaFontaine, Chairman of the recruitment committee, announced that a meeting of all interested people will be held at the chapter on Wednesday evening, December 5, to consider a program designed to meet the quota of 150 pints per visit on the 9 dates in 1974. The Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center will celebrate its 15th Anniversary Dec. 7 at the Columbus Area Chapter House with a luncheon at noon. Mr. Fred Laise, vice president, American National Red Cross will be guest speaker. All friends of Red Cross and the Blood Program are invited to attend.

John Stebelton and Lowell Ferguson announced that re-training of First Aid Instructors will get underway early in January with two series of three sessions each to be scheduled to update all former instructors and familiarize them with the new materials.

New Life

One day in January, 1968, Dr. Phillip Blaiberg, a South African dentist, lay dying of heart failure in a Johannesburg hospital. The next day Dr. Christian Barnard and his surgical team performed a heart transplant which gave him new hope and health. For the following twenty months that he lived, Dr. Blaiberg never ceased to be thankful for the new lease on life which the surgeons had given him.

The Great Physician, Jesus Christ, offers you also a new lease on life. The NEW LIFE which he offers is not good for only a few months, but is guaranteed for time and eternity, and it can be yours for the asking. Jesus said, "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Another time he said, "I have come that they may have life and that they may have it more abundantly."

DECEMBER 3-4-5

Pastor Ken Richards
Will Be at
St. Paul Lutheran Church
Ashville, Ohio At 7:30 P.M.

He will be telling us more about the New, Abundant Life which Jesus offers. It is the answer to twentieth century as well as first century problems. But don't take our word for it. Come see for your self.
